Both Factions Claiming Farm Price Victory

Senate Will Vote Monday, Debates To Be Limited In Time

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP)—The Senate agreed unanimously today to limit debate on its controversial farm bill beginning Monday and to start voting on the measure then.

Unlimited debate on the legislation will continue through tomorrow. Senators have been arguing the merits of the bill for three days and nights.

A key issue is the administration's request for a flexible system of price suports to replace the rigid, 90 per cent of parity supports now in effect for major crops.

Five-Hour Limitation

When the Senate meets at noon Monday a five-hour limitation will apply to debate on this question.

A dispute over who would allocate this debating time temporarily snagged the complicated agreement requiring unanimous consent.

Republican Leader Knowland of California and Democratic Leader Johnson of Texas, who worked out the agreement, proposed that Chairman Aiken (R-Vt) of the Senate Agriculture Committee and Johnson allocate the limited time.

This brought an angry protest from Republican Senators Young (ND), Thye (Minn) and Mundt (SD), who oppose flexible price supports.

They pointed out that the majority of the committee voted for a one-year extension of the present rigid supports and the chairman of the committee opposed this.

Johnson cooled them off by saying that he also favors extending rigid supports. He assured the farm state Republicans they could have all the debate time they want.

Sen. Langer (R-ND) refused to agree to the debate limitation until all parties assured him he would get time for an hour-and-a-half farm speech tomorrow.

The agreement will allow two hours of debate on each of the more than 30 amendments already offered to the bill and another three hours on final passage.

Passage Monday Or Tuesday

Normally this time is not used after key issues are decided, and Knowland said he hopes for final passage of the bill late Monday or Tuesday. That would send it back to the House for a compromise of numerous differences.

Sen. Morse (Ind-Ore), who has blocked numerous similar efforts to limit debate and force a vote on other issues, explained he was not doing that this time because there had been and would be adequate debate for public understanding of the issue.

Rumors of a possible compromise on price supports circulated in the Senate today.

The unofficial talk centered on the idea of voting the Eisenhower administration power to support prices of so-called basic crops anywhere between 82½ and 90 per cent of parity. Supports are now set at 90 per cent.

The 82½ to 90 range would be narrower than the 75 to 90 figures originally asked by the Eisenhower administration but would be the same as the House recently voted.

While desiring more leeway, administration men appeared pleased at the House vote because it endorsed the principle of flexibility. The administration's idea is that supports should be lowered somewhat in times of big surpluses, in order to encourage consumption, and raised in times of scarcity to encourage production.

30 Officers Aided Peress Discharge

M'Carthy Reveals Active Parts

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) said today he has discovered that 30 Army officers had "active" roles in giving an honorable discharge to Maj. Irving Peress and "the implication is that they all were at fault."

Peress is a New York dentist who refused to say whether he ever had any subversive connections when called before McCarthy's Senate Investigations subcommittee last year.

McCarthy has called on the Army repeatedly to say who was responsible for what he described as "the promotion and honorable discharge of this Fifth Amendment Communist."

Broke The Seal

He announced today that he and other members of his subcommittee had broken the seal on an envelope containing a confidential Army report on the Peress case. The report was submitted to senators conducting the McCarthy-Army hearings this spring but was not opened at that time under a ruling that it was not germane to the proceedings.

McCarthy said the report listed "a full general, two major generals, two brigadier generals, three colonels, two lieutenant colonels and a major," in addition to lower ranking officers, as connected with the Peress case.

But the report still doesn't show who was at fault in promoting Peress and ushering him out of the Army on an honorable basis while he was under congressional investigation, McCarthy declared, adding:

"The implication is that they were all at fault."

Asked about the next step in the investigation, McCarthy said he assumed that the officers should be called upon to testify and that some of them would be called "in any event."

It was in connection with the Peress case that Brig. Gen. Ralph Zwicker was questioned by McCarthy last year. Zwicker commanded Camp Kilmer, N.J., where Peress was stationed.

Secretary of the Army Stevens charged that McCarthy was abusive in questioning Zwicker. The incident was one of those which led to the McCarthy-Army hearings.

But Stevens, President Eisenhower and Secretary of Defense Wilson have subsequently acknowleged that the Army handled the Peress case badly.

Witnesses Refuse Answers

Resuming his investigation of alleged Red infiltration of defense plants, McCarthy held a closed hearing today and ran into two witnesses who invoked the Fifth Amendment and refused to testify on the ground that they might incriminate themselves.

The first was Lawrence W. Parrish, who works in the Bethlehem Steel Co., shipyards at Quincy, Mass., and who was excused from an earlier appearance because the subcommittee was under the impression the wrong man had been subpoenaed.

A second witness, Miss Diantha Hoag of Buffalo, N.Y., also said she had stood on her constitutional rights to refuse to answer some of McCarthy's questions.

Southern Demos Hold Whip Hand In Party Plans

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 6 (AP)—Southern Democrats appeared to be holding the whip hand today in the selection of the party's next national chairman to succeed Stephen Mitchell of Chicago.

This became evident as party leaders went to nearby Independence, Mo., to get the advice of former President Harry S. Truman before making plans for a big money drive to finance the Democratic bid in November for control of Congress.

Mitchell and Adlai Stevenson, the 1952 Democratic presidential nominee, drove to the Truman home this morning and spent 50 minutes talking with Truamn on his screened-in back porch. They were accompanied by Stanley Woodward, party finance chairman, and Charles S. Murphy, former White House counsel.

Mitchell has announced he will step down as national chairman after the November contests. A Democrat who is close to the inner circle said:

"The key to naming Mitchell's successor lies largely with the Southern Democrats. We've got to have someone who will be acceptable to the Southerners because we can't take any chances on breaking down the party unity that we've managed to achieve since 1952."

Thus the two big immediate aims of the Democratic chiefs appear to be: 1. A quick campaign to finance the party's drive for control of Congress and 2. Renewed efforts to heal any hurts that might be left over from the 1952 campaign when Southern leaders felt the "liberal" Democrats were trying to read them out of the party by means of a "loyalty pledge."

There was an atmosphere of optimism as some 70 Democratic leaders from all parts of the country gathered for informal talks on the money raising problem and campaign strategy.

The man mentioned most prominently as Mitchell's successor is James E. Finnegan, president of the Philadelphia City Council who has a good record of directing winning campaigns. Others include Michael Di Salle, former mayor of Toledo and one-time head of the Office of Price Stabilization, Paul Butler of Indianapolis, Democratic national committeeman, and Robert Butler of St. Paul, Minn., former ambassador to Cuba and Australia.

The immediate task of the Democrats is to guarantee the candidates for Senate and House seats that they will have a war-chest of $475,000 with which to make their fight. They have been given $190,000 already but donations have been so slow the party leaders are convinced some way must be found for more solid financing of the party's budget. Also there is a 1954 budget of $1,455,000 (m) plus a deficit of $150,000.

Dulles Draws Line Against Red Advance

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles has told the Senate Appropriations Committee he believes there is a good chance of preventing the loss of territory to the Communists in Viet Nam from becoming a "major disaster."

In testimony made public today, Dulles advocated in a July 21 appearance at a closed session of the group that the free world erect a "dike" around Viet Nam and draw a defense line "on which we can say that the transgression of that line will be something to which we will react."

Conservation Officer To Face Hearing

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Aug. 6 (AP)—Conservation Director Carl J. Johnson said today that a hearing has been set for Martinsburg Aug. 17 for a conservation officer who allegedly distributed campaign literature prior to this week's primary.

Johnson said the employe, Woodrow Parsons of Martinsburg, had been suspended without pay pending the outcome of the case, which Johnson said was more an investigation than a hearing.

East Germans Accept Food Offer By U. S.

President Extended Aid To Victims Of Recent Europe Floods

BONN, Germany, Aug. 6 (AP)—Communist East Germany tonight unexpectedly accepted President Eisenhower's offer of American food for victims of recent floods. The Reds previously had turned up their noses at help from across the Atlantic.

In a letter to the U.S. high commission in Germany, Communist Prime Minister Otto Grotewohl thanked Eisenhower for the offer "with expression of highest esteem."

Eisenhower Gratified

In Washington, the White House said Eisenhower was gratified.

The surprising acceptance of American aid came only seven days after Neues Deutschland, official newspaper of the ruling East German Communist party, blasted the offer as disreputable and a guise for American hiring of agents and spies.

Eisenhower offered July 29 to send American food to flood victims in Europe, including those behind the Iron Curtain.

Large areas of central and eastern Europe were devastated last month by the worst floods in recent history.

American officials here said several countries already have accepted the President's offer. But they conceded they were flabbergasted by the sudden Communist agreement to accept American assistance.

Eisenhower's offer was the first application of a new law authorizing shipments of food to distressed areas even though their governments are not friendly to the United States.

Expected To Refuse

The Communists had been expected to turn it down. A similar offer of 15 million dollars worth of food for the people of East Germany last July was denounced as an "American propaganda trick."

The food was sent into Berlin despite the official East zone snub and 650,000 East Germans ignored Red police to swarm across the border for the free packages.

At the time Eisenhower's offer was announced, presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty said roughly four million dollars worth of food was needed in the inundated areas. He said the government had in mind sending such commodities as grain and probably butter from its huge surplus stocks.

The White House statement today said the League of Red Cross Societies was "in the process of getting in touch with East German officials to work out details."

Oak Ridge Talks Are Arranged

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP)—Director Whitley P. McCoy of the Federal Mediation Service announced tonight that new government-sponsored negotiations have been arranged Monday in Oak Ridge, Tenn., in efforts to head off a threatened new strike of CIO Atomic workers.

McCoy said Federal Mediator E. F. Hitchcock arranged the Oak Ridge meetings between representatives of the CIO Gas, Coke and Chemical Workers Union and the Carbide & Carbon Chemicals Corp., operating contractor for the Atomic Energy Commission.

A meeting is to be held Monday morning at Oak Ridge concerning a threatened strike at an Oak Ridge, plant, and one in the afternoon regarding a strike threat at a Paducah, Ky., plant.

Resumption of negotiations on a local level was announced after the Atomic Energy Commission declined a union bid to intervene in the four-month old labor dispute. The AEC suggested the union ask a governmental panel to reconsider the case. However, officials discounted the possibility that this be done.

Death Separates Famed Quints

Death at St. Agathe, Que., yesterday of Emilie Dionne, center background, separated the famed Dionne quintuplets. News of the death of the 20-year-old girl came from her father, Oliva, who attributed it to a stroke that came without warning. The sisters are front, left to right, Cecile and Yvonne, back, Marie, Emilie and Annette.

Emilie Dionne, Famed Quintuplet, Succumbs

Death Comes Suddenly From Stroke

CALLANDER, Ont., Aug. 6 (AP)—Emilie Dionne, one of the famous quintuplets, died of a stroke today at the age of 20.

The death was announced by her grieving father, Oliva. He said the end came without warning or preliminary illness at St. Agathe, Que., where she had been staying at a convent.

The four survivors of the quints, Yvonne, Marie, Cecile and Annette, as well as her seven other brothers and sisters were reported deeply shocked.

Only last month Emilie, once known as the most carefree of the five sisters, had announced she was considering becoming a Roman Catholic nun.

Went To Montreal

She told newsmen of her plans on July 19 when they interviewed Marie, who had just left the Quebec convent of the Sisters of the Blessed Sacrament because of homesickness and poor health.

Emilie had gone to Montreal to meet Marie and had become lost. Police sent her to the palace of Paul-Emile Cardinal Leger, archbishop of Montreal, to get directions for meeting her sister.

Emilie, Marie and three of their brothers drove home from Montreal and the parents said "it was just like Christmas" to have them all home again.

Emilie had been studying household science at a convent at Nicolet near Trois-Rivieres, but was spending part of her summer vacation at a convent of the Oblate Sisters in St. Agathe at the time. This was the convent she was considering entering.

Made Medical History

The Dionne quintuplets, born May 28, 1934, made medical history. At the time there was authentic record of only between 32 and 35 such births, but none had lived to maturity.

The disruption of the Dionne quintuplets by death leaves the Diligenti quintuplets—two boys and three girls—of Buenos Aires, Argentina, as the only known living quintuplets. The Diligentis celebrated their 11th birthday July 15.

Quiz Another Woman In Sheppard Murder

CLEVELAND, Aug. 6 (AP)—Police questioned another woman in connection with the Sheppard murder case today and then released her when lie detector tests indicated she was not acquainted with Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard.

The questioning and tests took place in Detroit, where Cleveland Detective Peter Becker was aided by Detroit police.

The woman was Mrs. Margo Peebles, an attractive, 32-year-old nurse. She denied knowing Dr. Samuel Sheppard, and Lt. Thomas Cochill of the Detroit police said the lie detector tests seemed to prove she was telling the truth.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6 (AP) — The Conrad Hilton forces took over the top management of the Statler hotel chain today after obtaining proxies for more than two-thirds of Statler's outstanding common shares.

Late Returns Back Kefauver

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 6 (AP)—Straggling returns from a few late-reporting boxes tonight continued to add to the staggering margins by which Sen. Estes Kefauver and Gov. Frank Clement were re-elected in yesterday's Tennessee Democratic primary.

With 2,287 of 2,591 precincts counted, here was the picture:

Senate: Kefauver 380,628; Rep. Pat Sutton 161,088.

Governor: Clement 427,743; former Gov. Gordon Browning 172,830.

The walkaway totals apparently startled supporters of both the losers and the winners.

In the only statewide Republican primary contest, Ray H. Jenkins, special counsel in the recent Army-McCarthy hearings, was nominated for the Senate by a 5-1 majority.

But Jenkins says he won't run and GOP leaders said in that case a convention would have to be called to select a nominee. Republicans usually make little showing in Tennessee's statewide races.

The only new name in Tennessee's congressional delegation will be Sutton's successor. And that is a close race. The figure with only a few boxes unreported: Ross Bass, 35,000; John R. Long 32,626 and Tom Fox, 12,855.

Moscow Releases Two U. S. Embassy Workers

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP)—The State Department said tonight two members of the American Embassy were arrested and later released in Moscow on Wednesday for allegedly taking photographs of the Stalin auto works.

Arthur Hasler, an assistant naval attache, and Miss Joyce Marshall, a translator on the embassy staff, were arrested by Soviet Police in an unrestricted area on the outskirts of Moscow and were detained at a police station for about three hours. Their arrest was based on the charge that they were taking photographs of the auto works, the department said.

Congress Okays Compromise On Atomic Measure

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP)—Congressional negotiators, breaking a two-day deadlock on patent provisions, approved today a compromise bill designed to launch a new atomic power industry. But a new fight threatened in the Senate.

The measure, an adjustment of Senate and House differences, now goes back to both chambers for final action, and is scheduled to come up Monday in the House.

The long-debated bill carries out President Eisenhower's broad new program of putting private industry into atomic power, sharing some nuclear secrets with foreign allies and making other changes in the 1946 Atomic Energy Act.

Republicans predicted final passage without renewal of the marathon debate which occupied the Senate for 169 hours, but the revised bill could still be explosive.

Sen. Gore (D-Tenn), who led the recent Senate fight against the measure on the ground that it would create a virtual "private monopoly" of atomic power, said tonight the bill was still "a give-away cake with some icing on it—raspberry flavor." He predicted the Senate fight would be renewed, but said opponents "will not try to talk the bill to death."

Six Republicans and one Democrat on a Senate-House conference committee which drafted the compromise signed a report on it, thereby supporting it, but the remaining three Democrats delayed taking a formal position.

Final agreement by the conference committee, ending four days' closed door negotiations, came in a brief meeting. The conferees accepted a compromise between the House position of granting exclusive atomic patents and the Senate stand for 10 years of compulsory patent-sharing by companies engaged in developing atomic power.

TV And Radio To Be Barred From Hearing

Censure Investigation To Begin Next Week Against Sen. M'Carthy

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP)—Senators drafted to investigate censure charges against Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) today picked Sen. Watkins (R-Utah) as chairman and decided to bar TV and radio from the hearings.

They also announced they would proceed without undue speed or undue delay. Hearings apparently will not get underway before the week after next at the earliest, after the weeding out of some of the more minor complaints among 46 specific accusations against McCarthy. Some of the charges overlap.

Meets Behind Closed Doors

The committee met behind closed doors for nearly two hours today with Vice President Nixon sitting in. The six members, three Democrats, three Republicans, named Sen. Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo) as vice chairman.

McCarthy inquiries figured in a sort of senatorial triple play today.

While one committee went through preliminaries of a new investigation of his conduct, another assembled to see what can be done about whipping out a report on the last one in which he was a principal—the 36 days of turbulent hearings on McCarthy's scrap with Army officials.

In the midst of this activity, McCarthy's own Investigations subcommittee quizzed witnesses in a closed session on what the Wisconsin senator says is evidence of broad Communist infiltration of defense plants. Lawrence W. Parrish of Quincy, Mass., and Miss Diantha Hoag of Buffalo, N.Y., told newsmen they had refused to answer some questions put to them, invoking the Fifth Amendment.

Reached No Decision

Chairman Watkins told a news conference the new investigating committee has reached no decision yet as between public hearings or closed ones in which proceedings would be released to the press in transcript form.

Johnson, who came out against anything smacking of "star chamber" operations, said he thought the committee would agree on open hearings.

Watkins and Sen. Stennis D-Miss) agreed that there is no thought of putting off action on McCarthy beyond the November election.

Senate leaders have their sights set on getting through legislative chores by Aug. 14 and Watkins said it would be a fair assumption that hearings would begin after that.

The Army - McCarthy hearings were televised all the way, with brilliant lights burning down on the proceedings. Members said today's decision against a repetition of what Johnson called a "vaudeville show" was unanimous.

Committee Adds To Foreign Fund

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP) — The Senate Appropriations Committee added nearly 95 million dollars today to the new funds voted by the House to finance the foreign aid program for another year.

The committee reported out a bill carrying $2,990,824,816 in new money, plus $2,581,513,728 in unobligated balances left over from previous appropriations.

Posse Wounds And Captures Brothers Who Lost Election

LEXINGTON, Tenn., Aug. 6 (AP)—A massive posse trailed by thousands of curious spectators today captured two brothers who started a flare of bloody election night violence.

James A. Cogburn, 33, who started shooting when he lost his bid for the sheriff's job, was found hiding in thick underbrush about four miles from here.

His brother, Roy, 31, was taken earlier after being shot in the arm and back by blasts from shotguns fired by two state highway patrolmen. He was reported in fair condition at a hospital.

The brothers fled afoot early today after wrecking their car in speeding away from a gunfight in which a policeman was killed and Police Chief Clovis Stanfill critically wounded.

The wild shooting spree took place in front of the Lexington courthouse—where election officials were tallying the vote which showed James Cogburn running a poor third in the race for Democratic nomination as sheriff of Henderson County.

Highway patrol cars within a 100 mile radius were pulled in to help in the king-size manhunt that followed. Almost everyone who could find transportation turned out to watch.

Highway Patrol Capt. Noah Robinson, anchor man in a "skirmish line" of patrolmen and other officers moving cautiously through a heavy woods, spotted James Cogburn lying in the brush.

"Put your hands high, keep 'em high," he bellowed, whipping up his submachine gun. Cogburn, wounded in the leg, his clothing shredded by the sharp underbrush, cried weakly:

"I'm hurt and ain't gonna shoot."

Cogburn, shot in the leg in an earlier brush with officers, was armed with a doublebarrel shotgun, a .38 revolver and a supply of extra shells and bullets.

Famous Quint Had Epilepsy, Polio As Child Sister Says

STE. AGATHE, Que., Aug. 6 (AP)—Emilie Dionne, one of the famous quintupiets, died today at a Roman Catholic hostel near this resort center in the Laurentian hills.

She was described as a victim of epilepsy since she was 3. The girl who celebrated her 20th birthday with her four sisters May 28 suffered three strokes prior to her death.

Two occurred last night and the third—the fatal one—while she lay in her bed this morning at the hostel operated for old folks by the Oblate Sisters of Mary Immaculate.

A sister of the quintuplets, Mrs. Maurice Girouard, disclosed that Emilie had been a victim of polio 17 years ago and since had been afflicted with fainting spells.

Mrs. Girouard, an attractive dark eyed woman holding a baby on her knee, arrived with her husband by automobile to take charge of the body.

She said she was not familiar with the medical term for the illness Emilie suffered after the polio. Others here who knew the dead girl referred to it as epilepsy.

So far as known here, published reports concerning Emilie in the past had never referred to either polio or epilepsy.

Yesterday she was seen by residents of the hostel neighborhood, two miles from Ste. Agathe, strolling normally about the institution's grounds at Lac Brule. She wore the dark habit of the Oblate order.

She is said to have joined the order as a novice.

Emilie's death stunned authorities at the hostel and officials who had to contend with the formalities it created.

The Oblate Sisters declined to discuss any details. Msgr. S. Noiseux, who as parish priest has charge of the institution, referred all queries to Provincial Police headquarters in Montreal.

In testimony made public today, Dulles advocated in a July 21 appearance at a closed session of the group that the free world erect a "dike" around Viet Nam and draw a defense line "on which we can say that the transgression of that line will be something to which we will react."

Conservation Officer To Face Hearing

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Aug. 6 (AP)—Conservation Director Carl J. Johnson said today that a hearing has been set for Martinsburg Aug. 17 for a conservation officer who allegedly distributed campaign literature prior to this week's primary.

Johnson said the employe, Woodrow Parsons of Martinsburg, had been suspended without pay pending the outcome of the case, which Johnson said was more an investigation than a hearing.

East Germans Accept Food Offer By U. S.

President Extended Aid To Victims Of Recent Europe Floods

BONN, Germany, Aug. 6 (AP)—Communist East Germany tonight unexpectedly accepted President Eisenhower's offer of American food for victims of recent floods. The Reds previously had turned up their noses at help from across the Atlantic.

In a letter to the U.S. high commission in Germany, Communist Prime Minister Otto Grotewohl thanked Eisenhower for the offer "with expression of highest esteem."

Eisenhower Gratified

In Washington, the White House said Eisenhower was gratified.

The surprising acceptance of American aid came only seven days after Neues Deutschland, official newspaper of the ruling East German Communist party, blasted the offer as disreputable and a guise for American hiring of agents and spies.

Eisenhower offered July 29 to send American food to flood victims in Europe, including those behind the Iron Curtain.

Large areas of central and eastern Europe were devastated last month by the worst floods in recent history.

American officials here said several countries already have accepted the President's offer. But they conceded they were flabbergasted by the sudden Communist agreement to accept American assistance.

Eisenhower's offer was the first application of a new law authorizing shipments of food to distressed areas even though their governments are not friendly to the United States.

Expected To Refuse

The Communists had been expected to turn it down. A similar offer of 15 million dollars worth of food for the people of East Germany last July was denounced as an "American propaganda trick."

The food was sent into Berlin despite the official East zone snub and 650,000 East Germans ignored Red police to swarm across the border for the free packages.

At the time Eisenhower's offer was announced, presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty said roughly four million dollars worth of food was needed in the inundated areas. He said the government had in mind sending such commodities as grain and probably butter from its huge surplus stocks.

The White House statement today said the League of Red Cross Societies was "in the process of getting in touch with East German officials to work out details."

Oak Ridge Talks Are Arranged

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP)—Director Whitley P. McCoy of the Federal Mediation Service announced tonight that new government-sponsored negotiations have been arranged Monday in Oak Ridge, Tenn., in efforts to head off a threatened new strike of CIO Atomic workers.

McCoy said Federal Mediator E. F. Hitchcock arranged the Oak Ridge meetings between representatives of the CIO Gas, Coke and Chemical Workers Union and the Carbide & Carbon Chemicals Corp., operating contractor for the Atomic Energy Commission.

A meeting is to be held Monday morning at Oak Ridge concerning a threatened strike at an Oak Ridge, plant, and one in the afternoon regarding a strike threat at a Paducah, Ky., plant.

Resumption of negotiations on a local level was announced after the Atomic Energy Commission declined a union bid to intervene in the four-month old labor dispute. The AEC suggested the union ask a governmental panel to reconsider the case. However, officials discounted the possibility that this be done.

LONDON, Aug. 6 (AP)—A BOAC Stratocruiser bound for Montreal with 50 passengers was damaged when it ran into a flock of birds on takeoff from London Airport tonight.

LONDON, Saturday, Aug. 7 (AP)—Britain has decided to let Antoni Klimowicz, Polish stowaway refugee, remain in this country indefinitely.

Death Separates Famed Quints

Death at St. Agathe, Que., yesterday of Emilie Dionne, center background, separated the famed Dionne quintuplets. News of the death of the 20-year-old girl came from her father, Oliva, who attributed it to a stroke that came without warning. The sisters are front, left to right, Cecile and Yvonne, back, Marie, Emilie and Annette.

Emilie Dionne, Famed Quintuplet, Succumbs

Death Comes Suddenly From Stroke

CALLANDER, Ont., Aug. 6 (AP)—Emilie Dionne, one of the famous quintuplets, died of a stroke today at the age of 20.

The death was announced by her grieving father, Oliva. He said the end came without warning or preliminary illness at St. Agathe, Que., where she had been staying at a convent.

The four survivors of the quints, Yvonne, Marie, Cecile and Annette, as well as her seven other brothers and sisters were reported deeply shocked.

Only last month Emilie, once known as the most carefree of the five sisters, had announced she was considering becoming a Roman Catholic nun.

Went To Montreal

She told newsmen of her plans on July 19 when they interviewed Marie, who had just left the Quebec convent of the Sisters of the Blessed Sacrament because of homesickness and poor health.

Emilie had gone to Montreal to meet Marie and had become lost. Police sent her to the palace of Paul-Emile Cardinal Leger, archbishop of Montreal, to get directions for meeting her sister.

Emilie, Marie and three of their brothers drove home from Montreal and the parents said "it was just like Christmas" to have them all home again.

Emilie had been studying household science at a convent at Nicolet near Trois-Rivieres, but was spending part of her summer vacation at a convent of the Oblate Sisters in St. Agathe at the time. This was the convent she was considering entering.

Made Medical History

The Dionne quintuplets, born May 28, 1934, made medical history. At the time there was authentic record of only between 32 and 35 such births, but none had lived to maturity.

The disruption of the Dionne quintuplets by death leaves the Diligenti quintuplets—two boys and three girls—of Buenos Aires, Argentina, as the only known living quintuplets. The Diligentis celebrated their 11th birthday July 15.

Quiz Another Woman In Sheppard Murder

CLEVELAND, Aug. 6 (AP)—Police questioned another woman in connection with the Sheppard murder case today and then released her when lie detector tests indicated she was not acquainted with Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard.

The questioning and tests took place in Detroit, where Cleveland Detective Peter Becker was aided by Detroit police.

The woman was Mrs. Margo Peebles, an attractive, 32-year-old nurse. She denied knowing Dr. Samuel Sheppard, and Lt. Thomas Cochill of the Detroit police said the lie detector tests seemed to prove she was telling the truth.

Hilton Takes Charge

NEW YORK, Aug. 6 (AP) — The Conrad Hilton forces took over the top management of the Statler hotel chain today after obtaining proxies for more than two-thirds of Statler's outstanding common shares.

Late Returns Back Kefauver

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 6 (AP)—Straggling returns from a few late-reporting boxes tonight continued to add to the staggering margins by which Sen. Estes Kefauver and Gov. Frank Clement were re-elected in yesterday's Tennessee Democratic primary.

With 2,287 of 2,591 precincts counted, here was the picture:

Senate: Kefauver 380,628; Rep. Pat Sutton 161,088.

Governor: Clement 427,743; former Gov. Gordon Browning 172,830.

The walkaway totals apparently startled supporters of both the losers and the winners.

In the only statewide Republican primary contest, Ray H. Jenkins, special counsel in the recent Army-McCarthy hearings, was nominated for the Senate by a 5-1 majority.

But Jenkins says he won't run and GOP leaders said in that case a convention would have to be called to select a nominee. Republicans usually make little showing in Tennessee's statewide races.

The only new name in Tennessee's congressional delegation will be Sutton's successor. And that is a close race. The figure with only a few boxes unreported: Ross Bass,. 35,000; John R. Long 32,626 and Tom Fox, 12,855.

Moscow Releases Two U. S. Embassy Workers

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP)—The State Department said tonight two members of the American Embassy were arrested and later released in Moscow on Wednesday for allegedly taking photographs of the Stalin auto works.

Arthur Hasler, an assistant naval attache, and Miss Joyce Marshall, a translator on the embassy staff, were arrested by Soviet Police in an unrestricted area on the outskirts of Moscow and were detained at a police station for about three hours. Their arrest was based on the charge that they were taking photographs of the auto works, the department said.

Horticulturist Dies

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 6 (AP) — Dr. David Fairchild, 85, famed horticulturist and for many years director of the Agriculture Department's office of plant introduction, died today.

Congress Okays Compromise On Atomic Measure

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP)—Congressional negotiators, breaking a two-day deadlock on patent provisions, approved today a compromise bill designed to launch a new atomic power industry. But a new fight threatened in the Senate.

The measure, an adjustment of Senate and House differences, now goes back to both chambers for final action, and is scheduled to come up Monday in the House.

The long-debated bill carries out President Eisenhower's broad new program of putting private industry into atomic power, sharing some nuclear secrets with foreign allies and making other changes in the 1946 Atomic Energy Act.

Republicans predicted final passage without renewal of the marathon debate which occupied the Senate for 169 hours, but the revised bill could still be explosive.

Sen. Gore (D-Tenn), who led the recent Senate fight against the measure on the ground that it would create a virtual "private monopoly" of atomic power, said tonight the bill was still "a give-away cake with some icing on it—raspberry flavor." He predicted the Senate fight would be renewed, but said opponents "will not try to talk the bill to death."

Six Republicans and one Democrat on a Senate-House conference committee which drafted the compromise signed a report on it, thereby supporting it, but the remaining three Democrats delayed taking a formal position.

Final agreement by the conference committee, ending four days' closed door negotiations, came in a brief meeting. The conferees accepted a compromise between the House position of granting exclusive atomic patents and the Senate stand for 10 years of compulsory patent-sharing by companies engaged in developing atomic power.

TV And Radio To Be Barred From Hearing

Censure Investigation To Begin Next Week Against Sen. M'Carthy

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP)—Senators drafted to investigate censure charges against Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) today picked Sen. Watkins (R-Utah) as chairman and decided to bar TV and radio from the hearings.

They also announced they would proceed without undue speed or undue delay. Hearings apparently will not get underway before the week after next at the earliest, after the weeding out of some of the more minor complaints among 46 specific accusations against McCarthy. Some of the charges overlap.

Meets Behind Closed Doors

The committee met behind closed doors for nearly two hours today with Vice President Nixon sitting in. The six members, three Democrats, three Republicans, named Sen. Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo) as vice chairman.

McCarthy inquiries figured in a sort of senatorial triple play today.

While one committee went through preliminaries of a new investigation of his conduct, another assembled to see what can be done about whipping out a report on the last one in which he was a principal—the 36 days of turbulent hearings on McCarthy's scrap with Army officials.

In the midst of this activity, McCarthy's own Investigations subcommittee quizzed witnesses in a closed session on what the Wisconsin senator says is evidence of broad Communist infiltratio.. of defense plants. Lawrence W. Parrish of Quincy, Mass., and Miss Diantha Hoag of Buffalo, N.Y., told newsmen they had refused to answer some questions put to them, invoking the Fifth Amendment.

Reached No Decision

Chairman Watkins told a news conference the new investigating committee has reached no decision yet as between public hearings or closed ones in which proceedings would be released to the press in transcript form.

Johnson, who came out against anything smacking of "star chamber" operations, said he thought the committee would agree on open hearings.

Watkins and Sen. Stennis (D-Miss) agreed that there is no thought of putting off action on McCarthy beyond the November election.

Senate leaders have their sights set on getting through legislative chores by Aug. 14 and Watkins said it would be a fair assumption that hearings would begin after that.

The Army - McCarthy hearings were televised all the way, with brilliant lights burning down on the proceedings. Members said today's decision against a repetition of what Johnson called a "vaudeville show" was unanimous.

Committee Adds To Foreign Fund

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP) — The Senate Appropriations Committee added nearly 95 million dollars today to the new funds voted by the House to finance the foreign aid program for another year.

The committee reported out a bill carrying $2,990,824,816 in new money, plus $2,581,513,728 in unobligated balances left over from previous appropriations.

Posse Wounds And Captures Brothers Who Lost Election

LEXINGTON, Tenn., Aug. 6 (AP)—A massive posse trailed by thousands of curious spectators today captured two brothers who started a flare of bloody election night violence.

James A. Cogburn, 33, who started shooting when he lost his bid for the sheriff's job, was found hiding in thick underbrush about four miles from here.

His brother, Roy, 31, was taken earlier after being shot in the arm and back by blasts from shotguns fired by two state highway patrolmen. He was reported in fair condition at a hospital.

The brothers fled afoot early today after wrecking their car in speeding away from a gunfight in which a policeman was killed and Police Chief Clovis Stanfill critically wounded.

The wild shooting spree took place in front of the Lexington courthouse—where election officials were tallying the vote which showed James Cogburn running a poor third in the race for Democratic nomination as sheriff of Henderson County.

Highway patrol cars within a 100 mile radius were pulled in to help in the king-size manhunt that followed. Almost everyone who could find transportation turned out to watch.

Highway Patrol Capt. Noah Robinson, anchor man in a "skirmish line" of patrolmen and other officers moving cautiously through a heavy woods, spotted James Cogburn lying in the brush.

"Put your hands high, keep 'em high," he bellowed, whipping up his submachine gun. Cogburn, wounded in the leg, his clothing shredded by the sharp underbrush, cried weakly:

"I'm hurt and ain't gonna shoot."

Cogburn, shot in the leg in an earlier brush with officers, was armed with a doublebarrel shotgun, a .38 revolver and a supply of extra shells and bullets.

Famous Quint Had Epilepsy, Polio As Child Sister Says

STE. AGATHE, Que., Aug. 6 (AP)—Emilie Dionne, one of the famous quintuplets, died today at a Roman Catholic hostel near this resort center in the Laurentian hills.

She was described as a victim of epilepsy since she was 3. The girl who celebrated her 20th birthday with her four sisters May 28 suffered three strokes prior to her death.

Two occurred last night and the third—the fatal one—while she lay in her bed this morning at the hostel operated for old folks by the Oblate Sisters of Mary Immaculate.

A sister of the quintuplets, Mrs. Maurice Girouard, disclosed that Emilie had been a victim of polio 17 years ago and since had been afflicted with fainting spells.

Mrs. Girouard, an attractive dark eyed woman holding a baby on her knee, arrived with her husband by automobile to take charge of the body.

She said she was not familiar with the medical term for the illness Emilie suffered after the polio. Others here who knew the dead girl referred to it as epilepsy.

So far as known here, published reports concerning Emilie in the past had never referred to either polio or epilepsy.

Yesterday she was seen by residents of the hostel neighborhood, two miles from Ste. Agathe, strolling normally about the institution's grounds at Lac Brule. She wore the dark habit of the Oblate order.

She is said to have joined the order as a novice.

Emilie's death stunned authorities at the hostel and officials who had to contend with the formalities it created.

The Oblate Sisters declined to discuss any details. Msgr. S. Noiseux, who as parish priest has charge of the institution, referred all queries to Provincial Police headquarters in Montreal.

Another West Berlin Agent Goes To Reds

BERLIN, Aug. 6 (AP)—West Berlin authorities announced today an intelligence agent linked with former West German security chief Otto John has disappeared into Communist East Germany.

City officials said the missing man, Karl Albrecht Tiemann, offered security information recently to the Berlin bureau of John's Office for the Protection of the Constitution, the West German FBI. But they denied press reports that he was a "ranking staff member" of the office.

John crossed over to Red East Berlin July 20. The East Zone government said Wednesday it had given John political asylum at his request.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's Bonn government asked the Allied High Commission today to approach Soviet occupation authorities for John's release and return to the West. A West German vote to the commission said John is being held against his will.

Adenauer himself called John's disappearance terrifying in a nationwide radio broadcast today from a Black Forest vacation resort, but said the damage John might do in the East "is not as great as some at first believed."

Adenauer said John's office had "absolutely nothing to do with military matters."

Tiemann's disappearance raised conflicting reports on how closely he was linked with John. City officials said only that he worked for a Western Intelligence agency, but press reports went further. They said Tiemann talked with John in West Berlin sometime between July 17 and 20 and that information Tiemann gave Communist security police had already resulted in the arrest of a woman agent working for the West in East Berlin.

Woman Slain At Toy Factory

BALTIMORE, Aug. 6 (AP)—A man called a woman away from her work at a toy manufacturing plant here today, handed her two envelopes and then shot her to death, police reported.

The woman was identified as 31-year-old Nettie Anderson. Police said they didn't know whether she was married.

Witnesses told police a man came to a door of the Winchester and Woods, Inc., plant and asked another employe to call the Anderson woman. When she came to the door, they said, she and the man walked a short way down the sidewalk.

He handed her two envelopes, presumably letters, they said, and then pulled a gun. Police said the man fired two shots and the woman fell to the sidewalk. He then fired three more bullets into her body and walked away.

Unemployment Fails To Increase In July

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP)—Administration officials expressed encouragement today at a report showing that an expected increase in unemployment failed to develop in July. Employment held steady during the month, the report said.

Issued by the Commerce and Labor departments, the statistics placed civilian employment at 62,148,000 in July, or 50,000 more than in May but 972,000 less than the record level reached in July a year ago. There were about 2½ million more jobs in July than at last winter's low point.

Unemployment changed very little, declining by 1,000 from June to 3,346,000 in July. This was far less than President Eisenhower's chief economic adviser, Dr. Arthur Burns, had feared might happen. He had said seasonal expansion of the potential work force might drive the July jobless total beyond four million.

Wishing Well Is Robbed By Thieves Of $25

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 6 (AP)—Somebody wished for the coins tossed into the wishing well by wishers.

They took them—about $25 worth—after prying off the wishing well lock with a heavy crowbar.

The wishing well is in the glass building used for floral displays and known as the Jewel Box, in Forest Park here.

Henry Ochs, city floriculturist who reported the theft to police today, said "next time I toss a coin in the wishing well I'm going to wish to heaven that they catch the rascals!"

Two Bandits Escape Police

LANSDOWNE, Md., Aug. 6 (AP)—Two young gas station bandits apparently eluded a police net today and weary officers called off a search through thick woodland where the gunmen at first were believed trapped.

A small force of policemen from the nearby Halethorpe Station was left at the scene to patrol the roads.

The hunt southwest of Baltimore lasted about 12 hours.

Police armed with riot guns and rifles had stalked woods in search of two youths, both about 20, who held up two Baltimore area filling stations and then escaped into woods after an auto chase by police.

More than 50 police, civil defense auxiliaries and volunteer firemen searched woods in the Lansdowne area with the hunt later in the day shifting to thick growth along the nearby Patapsco River.

As the search progressed, State Police Lieut. W. W. Corbin said he spotted two men on Hammonds Ferry Road at Lansdowne who fled into woods when he sought to question them.

The hunt got underway after two gasoline stations, one in southwest Baltimore the other in Halethorpe, reported holdups which netted two blond gunmen about $158.

Witness Calls Sen. Jenner Drunk, Disorderly Officer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP) — A witness turned on Sen. Jenner (R-Ind) at a Senate hearing today and accused the senator of "drunk and disorderly" conduct as an Army officer in England during World War II. Jenner called him a liar.

"I had to pull him out of a pub—tight as hell," shouted the witness, William P. Gandall.

"You know you are lying", Jenner, chairman of the Senate Internal Security subcommittee, said in calm tones.

Gandall — a husky ex-sergeant who refused to say if he ever was a Communist—shot back:

"Many a sergeant saw you drunk and disorderly. We didn't call you the captain of the night for nothing."

Jenner, who held the Army rank of captain, told reporters later he was adjutant at Marbury Hall Reception Center in England at the time Gandall was a sergeant there, but said he didn't remember Gandall.

In the hearing itself Jenner brushed aside Gandall's accusations, telling him: "You are just trying to make a scene."

The hearing was part of the subcommittee's investigation of alleged subversive influences in the Army's Information and Education program.

Jenner and subcommittee Counsel Alva C. Carpenter brought out that Gandall delivered talks and did other work in the I. & E. program despite past association with groups which have been cited as subversive.

Gandall testified he was an organizer in the 1930s for the Workers Alliance, later cited by two attorneys general as Communist-penetrated. He said he is not a Communist now, but refused on the ground of possible self-incrimination to say whether he used to be a Communist or whether he served with the Abraham Lincoln Brigade in the Spanish civil war.

Dead Dogs, Cats Clog Up Shelters As Workers Strike

NEW YORK, Aug. 6 (AP)—More than 2,000 dead dogs, cats and birds clogged shelters today because of a five-day dogcatchers' strike.

Neighbors complained of the ordor from the Brooklyn shelter of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals—one of four it maintains.

The Health Department refused to remove the carcasses, since it said no actual health hazard exists.

Rendering plant employes who normally cart away the carcasses have refused to cross picket lines.

3 Canadians Face $30 Million Lien

NEW YORK, Aug. 6 (AP)—A tax lien of almost 30 million dollars was filed today against three Canadians accused of an attempted $16,400,000 tax evasion—reportedly the largest in the history of the Internal Revenue Service.

The Canadians are Albert L. McLennan, George W. Norgan and Isidore J. Klein, all of Vancouver, B.C. Federal court bench warrants were issued for them.

Gets Nine Years For Girl's Assault

Berserk Man Shoots 2 Others

HARTFORD, Conn., Aug. 6 (AP)—A man who went berserk in a residential area of Hartford today shot and wounded two men and barricaded himself in a drug store.

Police captured him after bombarding the store with tear gas.

Police identified him as Edward Guinan Jr., about 30.

Gerald Coughlin, 25, was shot in the stomach and wounded seriously. His Brother, James, 31, a printer, was shot in the shoulder. The Coughlins live in the neighborhood where the shooting occurred.

Police said the Couglins had finished their breakfast at a nearby restaurant and apparently were walking to their automobile when shot.

Post Office officials said Guinan, a mail carrier since 1946, was listed as a World War II disabled war veteran because of a nervous condition.

The Coughlin brothers said they knew Guinan, but only slightly, and that they never had had any sort of argument or difficulty witn him.

Explosion Kills Man, Burns Second

TOWSON, Md., Aug. 6 (AP)—Two men were working inside a dust collector at a factory today when an explosion turned it into a roaring inferno, killing one man and critically burning the other.

The flash fire swept through a dust collector at the Black and Decker Co. plant just north of Baltimore.

Witnesses said the blast rocked the firm's warehouse.

The dead man was identified as Charles Green, 42, of Baltimore. The injured workman, another Baltimorean, was Wilbert Porte, 65. Both victims are Negroes.

Full Control Given East German Reds

LONDON, Aug. 6 (AP)—Moscow radio announced tonight that the Soviet Union has turned over to the East German Communist government full control over its political, economic and cultural life.

Last March 25 the Soviets declared their recognition of the East German satellite regime as "fully sovereign." The Russians retained control, however, through Communist party channels.

Tonight Moscow radio said the Soviet Council of Ministers has canceled all orders and instructions issued by the Soviet military administration in East Germany from 1945 through 1953 on politics, economics and culture.

A brief statement read over Moscow radio for Soviet provincial newspapers said that the move was made "in conformity with the exchange of views between the government of the U.S.S.R. and the government of the German democratic republic."

CITIZENS GROUP FOR A BETTER CUMBERLAND

By Stanley L. Goodrich, Secy.

August 6, 1954

THE HONORABLE MAYOR AND COUNCIL MEMBERS

CUMBERLAND, MARYLAND

Sirs:

As one of the largest industries and the largest taxpayer within the corporate limits of the city, our assessed values amounting to 10.5% of total property valuation, we feel an obligation to record our views with respect to the proposed contract submitted by the State Roads Commission with reference to a crosstown viaduct or highway.

First, may we say in all frankness that we have tried to be good neighbors, working energetically for those projects we believe to be constructive and in the interest of future growth of the city. We realize the problems facing the city of attracting new industry, creating additional employment opportunities, and know that there is no magic formula by which they can be quickly or readily solved. Certainly, anyone who will take a few minutes to gather a few statistics together will quickly discover that employment in the State since 1939 has increased approximately 65 per cent. In the neighboring city of Hagerstown, by some 270 per cent; while in this same period in our own community, job opportunities have been reduced by approximately 5,000. Thus, it would seem as though the first objective of any project in which the city would bear a substantial cost should be one that would be of unquestionable long-range benefit and in the direction of attracting new industry to our area.

Already, we are faced with the highest tax rate in the State when the city and county rates are added together. In Baltimore and other areas in the State, industry is exempt from taxation on personal property such as machinery and inventories of both raw and finished product. Here in Cumberland, new industry is exempt from taxation for a period of ten years only.

We cite these facts to point up the problems in connection with attracting new industry to our area. In view of the foregoing and after considerable study of the State Roads Commission proposal with the facts that are available, we are definitely opposed to the city accepting the State Roads Commission contract for the following reasons:

1. The cost to the city will be substantial . . . at least one million dollars or more over a period of time and this will necessarily mean a further tax increase due to the lack of compensating growth.

2. We can see no real and lasting benefits for the city as a whole commensurate with the cost to taxpayers.

3. We feel that the city's financial resources should be preserved so as to be ready to meet any conditions that might arise in the effort to attract new industry. This might mean roads, extension of utility services and other facilities in order to attract growth. The recent request of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company for a sewage disposal plant is evidence that requirements of industry cannot be contemplated in advance.

4. The assessed valuation of property within the city is bound to be reduced which we think can be ill afforded.

5. The traffic problem in Cumberland has been over-emphasized and, by comparison with other cities, inconveniences because of traffic conditions are minor. The State Roads plan is laudable from the standpoint of tying arterial routes together but it is problematical as to the contribution it will make toward improving local traffic conditions.

6. There are many thinking people for and against the State Roads Commission proposal and we do not believe the city should be divided either physically, by a viaduct running across the heart of the city, or in community effort because of strong feelings that run for and against.

7. Finally, if we are to grow and progress as a community, which every good citizen of Cumberland wants to see, we must remain united. Divisive effort cannot succeed.

The real problem that has faced Cumberland for a period of years, and which to-date has not been remedied, is how to grow in keeping with an expanding population. For Cumberland to grow, it will require new industry, new job opportunities, and new payrolls.

In many areas that are attracting diversified industries, suitable buildings are available on a rental basis. Unfortunately, there are no such buildings for industrial purposes here. There is little likelihood of local private capital erecting such buildings even if tenancy were assured. Therefore, if the city feels that it can afford a financial burden, say of approximately one million dollars, wouldn't it be wise to explore the possibility of the city financing and erecting a suitable industrial building that could accommodate small diversified industries? Such a project would be self-supporting and the city would be reimbursed in the form of rent and carrying charges over a period of time. The Cumberland Industrial Promotion Committee could, undoubtedly, fill such a building within a reasonable period. Certainly, this would put us in competitive position with surrounding areas and, we believe, afford the biggest boost to increased hope on the part of the community generally for expanding employment opportunity.

The State Roads plan is a fateful decision for Cumberland. The financial resources of the city are not unlimited unless we can demonstrate our ability to grow. It is our belief that, given time, the common sense of our good people can better decide a proposal of this magnitude. All great questions in history have finally been settled by the people . . . hence, we respectfully suggest the people be given an opportunity through referendum to decide this issue.

Honorable Sirs, we offer this statement for your serious consideration.

John crossed over to Red East Berlin July 20. The East Zone government said Wednesday it had given John political asylum at his request.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's Bonn government asked the Allied High Commission today to approach Soviet occupation authorities for John's release and return to the West. A West German vote to the commission said John is being held against his will.

Adenauer himself called John's disappearance terrifying in a nationwide radio broadcast today from a Black Forest vacation resort, but said the damage John might do in the East "is not as great as some at first believed."

Adenauer said John's office had "absolutely nothing to do with military matters."

Tiemann's disappearance raised conflicting reports on how closely he was linked with John. City officials said only that he worked for a Western Intelligence agency, but press reports went further. They said Tiemann talked with John in West Berlin sometime between July 17 and 20 and that information Tiemann gave Communist security police had already resulted in the arrest of a woman agent working for the West in East Berlin.

Woman Slain At Toy Factory

BALTIMORE, Aug. 6 (AP)—A man called a woman away from her work at a toy manufacturing plant here today, handed her two envelopes and then shot her to death, police reported.

The woman was identified as 31-year-old Nettie Anderson. Police said they didn't know whether she was married.

Witnesses told police a man came to a door of the Winchester and Woods, Inc., plant and asked another employe to call the Anderson woman. When she came to the door, they said, she and the man walked a short way down the sidewalk.

He handed her two envelopes, presumably letters, they said, and then pulled a gun. Police said the man fired two shots and the woman fell to the sidewalk. He then fired three more bullets into her body and walked away.

Unemployment Fails To Increase In July

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP)—Administration officials expressed encouragement today at a report showing that an expected increase in unemployment failed to develop in July. Employment held steady during the month, the report said.

Issued by the Commerce and Labor departments, the statistics placed civilian employment at 62,148,000 in July, or 50,000 more than in May but 972,000 less than the record level reached in July a year ago. There were about 2½ million more jobs in July than at last winter's low point.

Unemployment changed very little, declining by 1,000 from June to 3,346,000 in July. This was far less than President Eisenhower's chief economic adviser, Dr. Arthur Burns, had feared might happen. He had said seasonal expansion of the potential work force might drive the July jobless total beyond four million.

Wishing Well Is Robbed By Thieves Of $25

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 6 (AP)—Somebody wished for the coins tossed into the wishing well by wishers.

They took them—about $25 worth—after prying off the wishing well lock with a heavy crowbar.

The wishing well is in the glass building used for floral displays and known as the Jewel Box, in Forest Park here.

Henry Ochs, city floriculturist who reported the theft to police today, said "next time I toss a coin in the wishing well I'm going to wish to heaven that they catch the rascals!"

Two Bandits Escape Police

LANSDOWNE, Md., Aug. 6 (AP)—Two young gas station bandits apparently eluded a police net today and weary officers called off a search through thick woodland where the gunmen at first were believed trapped.

A small force of policemen from the nearby Halethorpe Station was left at the scene to patrol the roads.

The hunt southwest of Baltimore lasted about 12 hours.

Police armed with riot guns and rifles had stalked woods in search of two youths, both about 20, who held up two Baltimore area filling stations and then escaped into woods after an auto chase by police.

More than 50 police, civil defense auxiliaries and volunteer firemen searched woods in the Lansdowne area with the hunt later in the day shifting to thick growth along the nearby Patapsco River.

As the search progressed, State Police Lieut. W. W. Corbin said he spotted two men on Hammonds Ferry Road at Lansdowne who fled into woods when he sought to question them.

The hunt got underway after two gasoline stations, one in southwest Baltimore the other in Halethorpe, reported holdups which netted two blond gunmen about $158.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP)—President Eisenhower went to Burning Tree club in nearby Maryland for a round of golf today.

Witness Calls Sen. Jenner Drunk, Disorderly Officer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP) — A witness turned on Sen. Jenner (R-Ind) at a Senate hearing today and accused the senator of "drunk and disorderly" conduct as an Army officer in England during World War II. Jenner called him a liar.

"I had to pull him out of a pub—tight as hell," shouted the witness, William P. Gandall.

"You know you are lying", Jenner, chairman of the Senate Internal Security subcommittee, said in calm tones.

Gandall — a husky ex-sergeant who refused to say if he ever was a Communist—shot back:

"Many a sergeant saw you drunk and disorderly. We didn't call you the captain of the night for nothing."

Jenner, who held the Army rank of captain, told reporters later he was adjutant at Marbury Hall Reception Center in England at the time Gandall was a sergeant there, but said he didn't remember Gandall.

In the hearing itself Jenner brushed aside Gandall's accusations, telling him: "You are just trying to make a scene."

The hearing was part of the subcommittee's investigation of alleged subversive influences in the Army's Information and Education program.

Jenner and subcommittee Counsel Alva C. Carpenter brought out that Gandall delivered talks and did other work in the I. & E. program despite past association with groups which have been cited as subversive.

Gandall testified he was an organizer in the 1930s for the Workers Alliance, later cited by two attorneys general as Communist-penetrated. He said he is not a Communist now, but refused on the ground of possible self-incrimination to say whether he used to be a Communist or whether he served with the Abraham Lincoln Brigade in the Spanish civil war.

Gets Nine Years For Girl's Assault

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Aug. 6 (AP) — A 41-year-old unemployed welder today was sentenced to nine years in the House of Correction for assaulting an 11-year-old girl last May in a northern county trailer camp.

Dead Dogs, Cats Clog Up Shelters As Workers Strike

NEW YORK, Aug. 6 (AP)—More than 2,000 dead dogs, cats and birds clogged shelters today because of a five-day dogcatchers' strike.

Neighbors complained of the ordor from the Brooklyn shelter of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals—one of four it maintains.

The Health Department refused to remove the carcasses, since it said no actual health hazard exists.

Rendering plant employes who normally cart away the carcasses have refused to cross picket lines.

3 Canadians Face $30 Million Lien

NEW YORK, Aug. 6 (AP)—A tax lien of almost 30 million dollars was filed today against three Canadians accused of an attempted $16,400,000 tax evasion—reportedly the largest in the history of the Internal Revenue Service.

The Canadians are Albert L. McLennan, George W. Norgan and Isidore J. Klein, all of Vancouver, B.C. Federal court bench warrants were issued for them.

Berserk Man Shoots 2 Others

HARTFORD, Conn., Aug. 6 (AP)—A man who went berserk in a residential area of Hartford today shot and wounded two men and barricaded himself in a drug store.

Police captured him after bombarding the store with tear gas.

Police identified him as Edward Guinan Jr., about 30.

Gerald Coughlin, 25, was shot in the stomach and wounded seriously. His Brother, James, 31, a printer, was shot in the shoulder. The Coughlins live in the neighborhood where the shooting occurred.

Police said the Couglins had finished their breakfast at a nearby restaurant and apparently were walking to their automobile when shot.

Post Office officials said Guinan, a mail carrier since 1946, was listed as a World War II disabled war veteran because of a nervous condition.

The Coughlin brothers said they knew Guinan, but only slightly, and that they never had had any sort of argument or difficulty witn him.

Call For Economies

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP)—The administration again has called on all federal agencies to reduce spending this fiscal year and write still greater economies into their budget for fiscal 1956, starting next July 1.

Explosion Kills Man, Burns Second

TOWSON, Md., Aug. 6 (AP)—Two men were working inside a dust collector at a factory today when an explosion turned it into a roaring inferno, killing one man and critically burning the other.

The flash fire swept through a dust collector at the Black and Decker Co. plant just north of Baltimore.

Witnesses said the blast rocked the firm's warehouse.

The dead man was identified as Charles Green, 42, of Baltimore. The injured workman, another Baltimorean, was Wilbert Porte, 65. Both victims are Negroes.

Full Control Given East German Reds

LONDON, Aug. 6 (AP)—Moscow radio announced tonight that the Soviet Union has turned over to the East German Communist government full control over its political, economic and cultural life.

Last March 25 the Soviets declared their recognition of the East German satellite regime as "fully sovereign." The Russians retained control, however, through Communist party channels.

Tonight Moscow radio said the Soviet Council of Ministers has canceled all orders and instructions issued by the Soviet military administration in East Germany from 1945 through 1953 on politics, economics and culture.

A brief statement read over Moscow radio for Soviet provincial newspapers said that the move was made "in conformity with the exchange of views between the government of the U.S.S.R. and the government of the German democratic republic."

CITIZENS GROUP FOR A BETTER CUMBERLAND

By Stanley L. Goodrich, Secy.

August 6, 1954

THE HONORABLE MAYOR AND COUNCIL MEMBERS

CUMBERLAND, MARYLAND

Sirs:

As one of the largest industries and the largest taxpayer within the corporate limits of the city, our assessed values amounting to 10.5% of total property valuation, we feel an obligation to record our views with respect to the proposed contract submitted by the State Roads Commission with reference to a crosstown viaduct or highway.

First, may we say in all frankness that we have tried to be good neighbors, working energetically for those projects we believe to be constructive and in the interest of future growth of the city. We realize the problems facing the city of attracting new industry, creating additional employment opportunities, and know that there is no magic formula by which they can be quickly or readily solved. Certainly, anyone who will take a few minutes to gather a few statistics together will quickly discover that employment in the State since 1939 has increased approximately 65 per cent. In the neighboring city of Hagerstown, by some 270 per cent; while in this same period in our own community, job opportunities have been reduced by approximately 5,000. Thus, it would seem as though the first objective of any project in which the city would bear a substantial cost should be one that would be of unquestionable long-range benefit and in the direction of attracting new industry to our area.

Already, we are faced with the highest tax rate in the State when the city and county rates are added together. In Baltimore and other areas in the State, industry is exempt from taxation on personal property such as machinery and inventories of both raw and finished product. Here in Cumberland, new industry is exempt from taxation for a period of ten years only.

We cite these facts to point up the problems in connection with attracting new industry to our area. In view of the foregoing and after considerable study of the State Roads Commission proposal with the facts that are available, we are definitely opposed to the city accepting the State Roads Commission contract for the following reasons:

1. The cost to the city will be substantial . . . at least one million dollars or more over a period of time and this will necessarily mean a further tax increase due to the lack of compensating growth.

2. We can see no real and lasting benefits for the city as a whole commensurate with the cost to taxpayers.

3. We feel that the city's financial resources should be preserved so as to be ready to meet any conditions that might arise in the effort to attract new industry. This might mean roads, extension of utility services and other facilities in order to attract growth. The recent request of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company for a sewage disposal plant is evidence that requirements of industry cannot be contemplated in advance.

4. The assessed valuation of property within the city is bound to be reduced which we think can be ill afforded.

5. The traffic problem in Cumberland has been over-emphasized and, by comparison with other cities, inconveniences because of traffic conditions are minor. The State Roads plan is laudable from the standpoint of tying arterial routes together but it is problematical as to the contribution it will make toward improving local traffic conditions.

6. There are many thinking people for and against the State Roads Commission proposal and we do not believe the city should be divided either physically, by a viaduct running across the heart of the city, or in community effort because of strong feelings that run for and against.

7. Finally, if we are to grow and progress as a community, which every good citizen of Cumberland wants to see, we must remain united. Divisive effort cannot succeed.

The real problem that has faced Cumberland for a period of years, and which to-date has not been remedied, is how to grow in keeping with an expanding population. For Cumberland to grow, it will require new industry, new job opportunities, and new payrolls.

In many areas that are attracting diversified industries, suitable buildings are available on a rental basis. Unfortunately, there are no such buildings for industrial purposes here. There is little likelihood of local private capital erecting such buildings even if tenancy were assured. Therefore, if the city feels that it can afford a financial burden, say of approximately one million dollars, wouldn't it be wise to explore the possibility of the city financing and erecting a suitable industrial building that could accommodate small diversified industries? Such a project would be self-supporting and the city would be reimbursed in the form of rent and carrying charges over a period of time. The Cumberland Industrial Promotion Committee could, undoubtedly, fill such a building within a reasonable period. Certainly, this would put us in competitive position with surrounding areas and, we believe, afford the biggest boost to increased hope on the part of the community generally for expanding employment opportunity.

The State Roads plan is a fateful decision for Cumberland. The financial resources of the city are not unlimited unless we can demonstrate our ability to grow. It is our belief that, given time, the common sense of our good people can better decide a proposal of this magnitude. All great questions in history have finally been settled by the people . . . hence, we respectfully suggest the people be given an opportunity through referendum to decide this issue.

Honorable Sirs, we offer this statement for your serious consideration.

Referendum On Expressway Program Is Urged By Eiler

Frederick W. Eiler, 854 Camden Avenue, is among those who have written to the Mayor and Council opposing construction of the proposed crosstown expressway. Eiler's letter follows:

"Out of the many conflicting views and comments concerning the proposed overhead bridge, I feel that many basic matters which must be considered are lost sight of. There are, of course, many imponderables which affect people differently depending on how such a project will affect them personally, but there are other matters which affect all citizens of Cumberland, and there is a tendency to lose sight of some of these in discussions which unfortunately have become personal. I am not interested in these phases but only in the basic considerations.

Not Definite Enough

"I have endeavored to find out the exact specifications of the overhead bridge and I am advised that only about 6,200 feet of it have been definitely planned for which costs are available. Costs are not available for the remainder of the project totaling about 9,000 feet. I read the detailed review carried by the Cumberland News and Evening Times, and it is my understanding that while the printed map and accompanying articles gave the project as definite for location and costs, that this in fact is not correct. What was printed was merely a summary of the best guesses available from the State Roads Commission.

"My information is, that of the traffic which will use the overhead bridge, less than 14 per cent is estimated as transient; 86 per cent is local traffic. The purpose of any project for local traffic is to eliminate bottlenecks, particularly the western end of Baltimore Street. I have dicussed this matter with a number of people, and they all feel that the proposal to run a bridge from Riverside Park to Canal Street and a throughway to South Cumberland would serve this purpose much better than the overhead bridge at a saving of many millions of dollars.

"It is admitted by those favoring the overhead bridge that property now taxable will be removed from the tax rolls and much other property will be depreciated because of its proximity to it. We can not afford the removal of any substantial amount of taxable property. Rather we must find additional sources of revenue in order to meet ever increasing costs in all departments of the City. At the present time Cumberland has the highest combined City and County tax rate of any city in Maryland. Our combined rate is 20 cents per $100.00 higher than Frederick and 40 cents per $100.00 higher than Baltimore City. The elimination of close to a million dollars of taxable property, in addition to the depreciation in values of surrounding property, will add to our tax rate and make our present burdensome tax situation even worse.

Would Hurt Business

"The proposition that the overhead bridge will be an aid to business in Cumberland is entirely unwarranted. Again I have discussed this phase of the situation with many of our merchants, and they feel it will be a hindrance. In this connection I am not thinking of the transient traffic but rather of local traffic.

"There must be considered also the financial condition of our City. Brokers who are experts in such matters are of the opinion that a city should not have outstanding bonds totaling more than 7 per cent of the assessed value of real estate in order to maintain a ready market and favorable interest rates. Our assessable real estate totals approximately $51,000,000.00 so that the list of our bonded indebtedness should not exceed $3,500,000.00 if our present position in the bond market is to be maintained. Cumberland now has outstanding $2,700,000.00 of bonds. Another bond issue of $1,000,000.00 must be issued to complete flood control work. This is a necessity and can not be avoided and when issued will take us over our favorable indebtedness limit. I may point out in this connection that the sewerage disposal project will require a bond issue of $2,000,000.00, but this may not be considered in this connection because it is contemplated that these bonds will be repaid through the rental revenue and will not necessarily involve Cumberland's full faith and credit against real estate.

Many Other Matters

"There are many other matters which I could mention such as the fact that any area covered by an overhead structure becomes blighted and is a detriment to a city, but many of these have been hashed and rehashed and are well known.

"During the recent municipal election it was evident that the vast majority of Cumberlanders were opposed to the overhead bridge. This was recognized to such an extent that practically all, if not all, of those running for office announced publically their opposition to the project. The matter of an overhead bridge is of such vital concern to all of us that I feel the matter should be placed before the citizens of Cumberland as a whole in the form of a referendum so that their decision may be obtained in a direct way not circumscribed by any extraneous issues. And I urge that this be done. The small cost of such a referendum is less considerable than the total ill will which is bound to be created by the arbitrary adoption by your body of the overhead bridge project without giving the people of Cumberland the opportunity and right to express their view in an election, particularly in view of the fact that, as stated, most of you announced your opposition prior to your election.

"May I add finally that the overhead bridge if put through will not affect my business or the value of my property in any way, except taxwise. I am writing only as a citizen of Cumberland interested in our future growth and development."

Cumberland now has outstanding $2,700,000.00 of bonds. Another bond issue of $1,000,000.00 must be issued to complete flood control work. This is a necessity and can not be avoided and when issued will take us over our favorable indebtedness limit. I may point out in this connection that the sewerage disposal project will require a bond issue of $2,000,000.00, but this may not be considered in this connection because it is contemplated that these bonds will be repaid through the rental revenue and will not necessarily involve Cumberland's full faith and credit against real estate.

Many Other Matters

"There are many other matters which I could mention such as the fact that any area covered by an overhead structure becomes blighted and is a detriment to a city, but many of these have been hashed and rehashed and are well known.

"During the recent municipal election it was evident that the vast majority of Cumberlanders were opposed to the overhead bridge. This was recognized to such an extent that practically all, if not all, of those running for office announced publically their opposition to the project. The matter of an overhead bridge is of such vital concern to all of us that I feel the matter should be placed before the citizens of Cumberland as a whole in the form of a referendum so that their decision may be obtained in a direct way not circumscribed by any extraneous issues. And I urge that this be done. The small cost of such a referendum is less considerable than the total ill will which is bound to be created by the arbitrary adoption by your body of the overhead bridge project without giving the people of Cumberland the opportunity and right to express their view in an election, particularly in view of the fact that, as stated, most of you announced your opposition prior to your election.

"May I add finally that the overhead bridge if put through will not affect my business or the value of my property in any way, except taxwise. I am writing only as a citizen of Cumberland interested in our future growth and development."

Burke States

considerable study of the State Roads Commission proposal with the facts that are available, we are definitely opposed to the city accepting the State Roads Commission contract for the following reasons:

"1. The cost to the city will be substantial . . .at least one million dollars or more over a period of time and this will necessarily mean a further tax increase due to the lack of compensating growth.

"2. We can see no real and lasting benefits for the city as a whole commensurate with the cost to taxpayers.

"3. We feel that the city's financial resources should be preserved so as to be ready to meet any conditions that might arise in the effort to attract new industry. This might mean roads, extension of utility services and other facilities in order to attract growth. The recent request of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company for a sewage disposal plant is evidence that requirements of industry cannot be contemplated in advance.

"4. The assessed valuation of property within the city is bound to be reduced which we think can be ill afforded.

"5. The traffic problem in Cumberland has been over-emphasized and, by comparison with other cities, inconveniences because of traffic conditions are minor. The State Roads plan is laudable from the standpoint of tying arterial routes together but it is problematical as to the contribution it will make toward improving local traffic conditions.

"6. There are many thinking people for and against the State Roads Commission proposal and we do not believe the city should be divided either physically, by a viaduct running across the heart of the city, or in community effort because of strong feelings that run for and against.

"7. Finally, if we are to grow and progress as a community, which every good citizen of Cumberland wants to see, we must remain united. Divisive effort cannot succeed.

"The real problem that has faced Cumberland for a period of years, and which to-date has not been remedied, is how to grow in keeping with an expanding population. For Cumberland to grow, it will require new industry, new job opportunities, and new payrolls.

"In many areas that are attracting diversified industries, suitable buildings are available on a rental basis. Unfortunately, there are no such buildings for industrial purposes here. There is little likelihood of local private capital erecting such buildings even if tenancy were assured. Therefore, if the city feels that it can afford a financial burden, say of approximately one million dollars, wouldn't it be wise to explore the possibility of the city financing and erecting a suitable industrial building that could accommodate small diversified industries? Such a project would be self-supporting and the city would be reimbursed in the form of rent and carrying charges over a period of time. The Cumberland Industrial Promotion Committee could, undoubtedly, fill such a building within a reasonable period. Certainly, this would put us in competitive position with surrounding areas and, we believe, afford the biggest boost to increased hope on the part of the community generally for expanding employment opportunity.

"The State Roads plan is a fateful decision for Cumberland. The financial resources of the city are not unlimited unless we can demonstrate our ability to grow. It is our belief that, given time, the common sense of our good people can better decide a proposal of this magnitude. All great questions in history have finally been settled by the people . . . hence, we respectfully suggest the people be given an opportunity through referendum to decide this issue."

Reds Working Hard To Kill Asia NATO

Communist China, releasing almost daily broadcasts from Peiping threatening to "annihilate" Chiang Kai-shek, etc., is busily engaged in attempts to line up Asiatic nations on its side. Red China wasted no time after the Indochina surrender to indicate she didn't think the U. S. had a copyright on an Asian alliance.

Peiping promptly announced it was contacting India, Burma, Ceylon, Indonesia and other nations for the purpose of forming its own all-Asiatic mutual defense setup. These are the so-called uncommitted nations that the U. S. seeks to weld into an anti-communist bloc. But the communists, riding high on a triumphant wave, intend to checkmate U. S. plans.

Active communist diplomatic competition is just one hurdle the U. S. must clear before perfecting the proposed Southeast Asian Treaty Organization. France —which has just been defeated by the communists in Indochina—and Britain—which prefers Red China to Chiang Kai-shek—have shown no enthusiasm for the proposed anti-communist alliance.

Assuming an alliance is put together — and Washington is not too optimistic — how would the Asian signatories keep communist infiltrators from insinuating themselves in strength behind their lines? In a recent interview Richard G. Casey, Australian minister for external affairs, admitted that this was a problem for which no immediate solution was in sight.

Establishment of an Asian NATO will take forthright U. S. leadership and creative diplomacy of a brand not too much in evidence in Asiatic dealings.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Censorship By Indirection

In the 1952 campaign, the Democrats made a great to-do about the One Party Press. Of course, there is no such thing in this country. American newspapers have been called all sorts of names from the "Uptown Daily Worker" to the "Wall Street Kept Press," but the truth is not in such phrases. In fact, even inside the pages of each newspaper that is not strictly propagandistic, there are great differences in the presentation and interpretation of identical facts.

What brings this up is the testimony of Representative Martin Dies before the Jenner Committee. Dies is describing the hoax put over by some Left Wing reporters that Dr. J. B. Matthews testified before the old Dies Committee, nearly 20 years ago, that Shirley Temple was a Communist. Matthews did no such thing. He had actually said that a message appeared in "Ce Soir" in Paris which bore many names, none of which was related to a Communist, and that among them was the name of Shirley Temple. Matthews had used that as an example of how the Communists abuse innocent people.

Dies was incensed. And here is his story of what happened on radio:

"Immediately I asked for time on the radio. NBC wouldn't let me have the time. They told me frankly they were afraid of executive influence. Columbia wouldn't let me have the time . . .

". . . Then I got the time at Mutual, but Mutual weakened at the last moment and finally said to me, 'You have got to submit your manuscript because Michelson has insisted that we let Paul Anderson follow you on the radio, and he is speaking for the White House and the White House wants you to surrender your manuscript to Paul Anderson.'

"I said, 'I am not going to do it.' I said, 'I have been attacked all over the country. I am entitled to go on the air and I am not going to submit the manuscript.'

"For a time it looked as though I would not be permitted to go on the air. Finally I did go on the air, and I just simply read the testimony, the transcript, to show the people that it (the Shirley Temple story) was not true."

The radio industry ought to take this testimony seriously because it is a direct accusation that radio connives at accepting censorship. Here is sworn testimony which is either true or Martin Dies has committed perjury. I was recently told that one of the most prominent nation-wide commentators lost a great many local outlets because he "told the truth," as his friends put it, about the McCarthy hearings. Rightist commentators have difficulty finding sponsors, although Rightest columnists have, in the aggregate, more newspapers than the Left Wing columnists. If they do so well in the newspapers, why do they have so much trouble getting sponsors on radio?

If Charles Michelson, who was Roosevelt's press agent, could require a radio network to submit a Congressman's manuscript to an antagonistic newspaperman, is it possible that similar operations are in practice today? Does that explain the difficulties of Right Wing commentators on radio and television? They are regarded as controversial, but the Left Wingers are not controversial. How come?

The other night, at an after midnight party, I listened to an explanation of how best-seller lists are manipulated to favor Leftist authors. I resolved never again to look at a best seller list unless printed along each listing are the figures of total sales up-to-date. As a matter of fact, some of the books listed sell fewer copies than books that are only listed once or not at all.

Who organizes these queer operations? Martin Dies's report of his experience with radio is similar to reports I have heard from other public men. Only two television companies were willing to show the whole, unedited McCarthy-Stevens hearings, the American Broadcasting Company and Du Mont. The National Broadcasting Company gave only the Stevens testimony; Columbia gave no unedited version. The late-at-night edited version omitted what they did not want the people to see, on the firm ground that they had to cut out something, and they used their own judgment. That is an editorial prerogative and risk.

It would be interesting to hear what the radio companies have to say about Martin Dies's sworn testimony.

Farewell To Arms?

Memory Book Includes Portraits Of Past Greats

By Brother Barnabas

A funeral service was being held in an undertaker's parlor for a man of doubtful reputation and the preacher was at a loss to know what favorable word he might say about the departed.

When he had finished his brief remarks he asked if any one present wished to add a few words to the tribute.

There was a long silence. Finally, a man rose and said: "If nobody cares to speak, I would like to say a few words about the climate of southern California."

Down in Washington just now a senatorial inquisition is being held to decide what to do about our proverbial "Peck's Bad Boy," — whether to "put the wraps" on him, or apply whitewash and turn him loose—whether to put him in the doghouse or award him the Nobel Prize for being the nation's most distinguished political scavenger.

Turn Pages

While the matter is being debated, this space-filler would like to turn a few pages of his memory book featuring some celebrities with whom he has had contacts more or less remote, about whom there has hovered no smell of smoke.

Herbert Hoover and I once had our pictures taken together. It was not a tete-a-tete affair. While the band played he came tripping down the White House lawn and took the place that had been reserved for him in the formation of the group, meanwhile the posed cameras clicking.

In a moment the show was over and the President hastened back to his desk, for he was a busy man.

Herbert Clark Hoover was and is one of America's most influential statesmen and benefactors as history proves. Next Tuesday, August 10, he will be 80. Send him a birthday card.

Chip Off Block

His son, Herbert, Jr., has just done a remarkable work in settling the Anglo-Iranian oil dispute, proving that he is a "chip off the old block."

The nearest I ever came to a multimillionaire was when John D. Rockefeller, Jr. was a member of the "Inter-church World Movement" meeting in Atlantic City. One day the conference reached an impasse and he spoke the word that cut the Gordian knot.

The next day we passed on the boardwalk. He was being pushed in a wheel chair, I was walking. He spoke pleasantly and would have invited me to ride beside him, I verily believe, had his wife not been riding with him. He was that kind of a man.

He is said to be the greatest benefactor and hardest-working servant the American people have ever known; yet he is modest and retiring.

Check Bounced

John D. Jr. once had a check "bounce." (Bankers are so particular!) He had forgotten to append "Jr." to his signature. They have bounced for me too, but for a different reason.

Charles Warren Fairbanks was U. S. Senator from Indiana from 1897 to 1905, and Vice-Pres. with "Teddy" Roosevelt from 1905 to 1909.

He was 6 ft. and 3 inches tall, straight as an Indian, graceful as a swan, a flamboyant personality.

The writer was accorded a half-hour interview in his home in Indianapolis on day. He did most of the talking. He told about being in New York at the time of the famous "Beecher trial." He wanted to hear the man preach, and was told to "cross the bridge and follow the crowd" which he did.

Landed In Balcony

Every seat was taken, except the last one in the balcony where he finally landed. In the sermon Beecher told of an eccentric "cut in Indiana" who slept under the same roof with his hogs.

He cut a hole up the upstairs floor, and when the hogs below quarreled he punched them with a long sharp-pointed pike through the trapdoor, until they quieted down.

The story was in illustration of the conflict between the animal and spiritual natures of man, the one needing to be brought under control by the other.

As we stood to say Goodbye, he suavely said: "Mrs. Fairbanks will be so sorry to have missed your call. I'll tell her of it when she returns home."

Time fails me for more than mention of some of the celebrities who have "passed from the shifting sands" but whose names are inscribed in my album of fame; such immortals as:

"Teddy" Roosevelt who said "Don't flinch; don't foul; hit the line hard, and "Speak softly and carry a big stick."

Climbed Ladder

Franklin Delano Roosevelt, who climbed the ladder of fame against almost insuperable handicaps.

Booker T. Washington who founded Tuskegee Institute in 1881 and remained its president until his death. I heard him say: "I'se not colored; I'se born that way."

William E. Barton, an authority on Lincolniana, father of Bruce Barton.

Washington Gladden, F. W. Gunsaulus, John Henry Barrows, Roman Catholic Archbishop Glennon and John Henry Jowett were silver-tongued pulpit orators whose memories I cherish.

"Let us now praise famous men, and our fathers who begat us. Such as did bear rule in their kingdoms, men renowned for their power, giving counsel by their understanding . . . leaders of the people by their counsels, wise and eloquent in their instructions."

Retrospectively yours,

Brother Barnabas

Baering Down On The News

Reason we didn't sign the French peace treaty is we have trouble enough.

French might have won if they could have dug up a Vietnam who looked like Lafayette.

They say the more a thing changes the more it looks the same. But you can fatigue your pockets paying for the duplications.

This is amputation at the 17th Parallel for 12,000,000 Vietnamese. Sir Winnie Churchill congratulates Anthony Eden for what? A solo in a Homburg?

The London Times says the result was gained by imaginative skill of Eden in private talks with Molotov. They both must have walked in the same direction.

We agree with the Manchester Guardian that tension has relaxed. The same thing happens in a watch when the main spring breaks.

Ike fired a statement through the White House upper turret saying he was happy the war was over and the border skirmishes had started. There is nothing so contented as good neighbors winking at each other through a knothole in a spite fence.

Although we were as neutral as distilled water, don't forget the French wanted to deal us in at Dien Bien Phu. We couldn't spare the time from the Bums-Giants series.

Secretary Water Bedell Smith issued a statement which was a unilateral soliloquy in philosophical disgust. What can't be cured must be endured and you can thank your grandmother for that crack.

Taking it all in all we've had it. There will be counter-treaties and post-treaties signed until they both get one they're sure the other side likes less than they do.

That's diplomacy of purest rage serene.

In the unbalanced interim Mendes-France has been cheered by the French Lunch Club of Deputies. He will stage a parade on the Champs soon as he can locate one of Charley de Gaulle's old permits.

Many Childhood Health Hazards Are Being Overcome

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

The health of the baby begins with the health of the mother. Women are encouraged to visit the physician during the early months of pregnancy to avoid complications. They are taught the needs for proper rest, adequate diet, reasonable gain in weight, good hygiene, and repeated examinations.

Following confinement, the baby is confronted with the hazards of infancy. At the turn of the century, many infants died from acute and chronic nutritional diseases, diphtheria, congenital venereal disease, diarrhea, or pneumonia. These conditions now are rare but not forgotten. They seldom arise because most mothers want their offspring to obtain nourishing food, including minerals and vitamins, and cooperate with the physician on early vaccinations to combat contagious diseases.

Whooping cough during the first year of life is a threat because the newcomers have no inherited immunity. As a result, a pertussis vaccine is recommended within the first six months. How effective is this vaccine? In a recent study of 493 inoculated and 438 control infants who had been exposed to household whooping cough, 89.7 per cent of the controls and 13.2 per cent of the protected youngsters developed the disease.

Diphtheria "shots" also are necessary even though the malady is not common. The same can be said of smallpox; its incidence is low yet outbreaks continue to occur, demonstrating that the disorder still is present. Immunization against tetanus is essential and, to save on the number of visits and injections, physicians usually combine diphtheria, tetanus, and whooping cough serum into a single dose.

Though we have gained the upper hand over contagious diseases, accidents remain killers and cripplers. As the child grows, he has more freedom of action and is likely to get into trouble. He can roll off the bed or bath table; toddlers reach for electrical appliances or the handles of a saucepan of boiling water. Such pitfalls nowadays are more serious than all the contagious diseases combined. Until an accident preventive is found we must rely upon education of the community, the family, and the individual.

Modern children also are better off now that more parents realize that youngsters grow at their own pace. The bookworm next door is no longer put on a pedestal or cited as an example of how Johnny ought to behave. The same can be said when Mary is slow to learn toilet training, buttoning her shoes, or combing her hair. This attitude encourages self-confidence and discourages feelings of resentment that are engendered by not being able to keep up with other children.

BLOOD AND ALLERGY

F. L. writes: Does allergy show up in the blood?

REPLY

Indirect evidence is obtained by studying the blood cells, which usually show an increase in the number of eosinophils. These large white cells are loaded with granules that take on a red stain.

INNATE PECULIARITIES

H. F. writes: Do inherited characteristics become more pronounced during the menopause?

REPLY

Not as a rule. During this period, nervous traits and emotional disturbances may become more pronounced but they may or may not be inherited.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Taken by his mom to a Western Arizona art exhibit, little Jimmy yanked his mother's dress and pointed to a futuristic daub in a big, white frame. "What' that?" he demanded.

Ma studied the picture carefully, then explained, "It's supposed to be a cowboy and his horse."

Jimmy looked skeptical, and then asked, "Well, why ain't it?"

The son of one of Minnesota's hardy Swedish pioneers was visiting a friend out West. The Westerner began to brag about the wonderful echo in his valley. "If you stand and call 'John Smith,' " he declared, "you will hear no less than thirteen echoes of it."

"That's nothing at all," belittled the man from Minnesota. "Just outside of Minneapolis there's a high hill. If you climb to the summit and call 'Ole Oleson,' you'll immediately hear the echo, saying, 'Which one?' "

McCarthy Probers Can Save Time By Consulting Facts Already Recorded

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—The latest McCarthy incident has Senate wives just as mad as some of their husbands.

Seats in the "family gallery" of the Senate are not reserved. However, it is a long-standing rule that no one except a Senator's wife can sit on the front row of the gallery. Not even a Senator's daughter can sit on the front row. Wives only can sit there.

Imagine the surprise of three Senate wives, therefore, when they were barred from sitting on the front row because they were "reserved for four friends of Senator McCarthy and Mrs. McCarthy."

When Mrs. James Duff of Pennsylvania, Republican, together with Mrs. Paul Douglas of Illinois and Mrs. William Fulbright of Arkansas, Democrats, entered the family gallery to listen to the Flanders resolution debate, the gallery attendant called them back from some empty seats in the front row.

The sergeant-at-arms, he said, had given strict instructions to hold those five front-row seats for Senator McCarthy. The three Senate ladies pointed out that the sergeant-at-arms apparently didn't know the rules. McCarthy had only one wife, and she alone could sit in the front row. But even she could not have a seat reserved in advance. But the attendant insisted. So, to avoid an incident, the ladies quietly sat in rear seats.

Imagine their surprise, therefore, when in walked Mrs. McCarthy accompanied by Mrs. Constantine Brown, wife of the Washington Star columnist, and sat down in the front-row seats from which the Senate wives had been barred. With them was a bulky man, who looked like a bodyguard, and two elderly ladies, neither of them a Senate wife.

McCarthy-Go-Round

THINGS THE SENATE ALREADY KNOWS ABOUT McCARTHY—A lot of time, stenographic ink, and money will now be spent in another investigation of Senator McCarthy. Meanwhile, the sworn official facts already on file regarding Jumpin' Joe take up a young library. There have already been five investigations, directly or indirectly, of either McCarthy or his charges . . . . here are some facts the new Senate committee can easily document without wasting any time whatsoever:

MALMEDY MASSACRE — First investigation of McCarthy resulted from his charge that the American Army had tortured the Nazi Elite Corps who shot down unarmed American prisoners in cold blood at Malmedy during the Battle of the Bulge. Though the Democrats were in power, they made a Republican, Senator Ray Baldwin of Connecticut, chairman of the investigating committee, which ended with McCarthy's walkout in a huff and charging his own Senate colleagues with deception. . . . The probe showed that American officers had not tortured the Nazis, but McCarthy charges did play into the hands of German Communists who charged the U. S. with murder and torture.

ANNA ROSENBERG—McCarthy was one of the few Senators who helped cast suspicion on Mrs. Anna Rosenberg, nominated to be Assistant Secretary of Defense. . . . he sent his chief investigator, Don Surine, to New York, and, with Ed Nellor of Fulton Lewis's staff, he consorted with anti-Semitic conspirators against Mrs Rosenberg. . . . further investigation by an impartial Senate committee showed that Mrs. Rosenberg was just the opposite of a Communist and she was overwhelmingly confirmed as Assistant Defense Secretary. . . . the Senate voted to send the investigative report to the Justice Department for possible perjury prosecution, but the Justice Department, after weeks of hesitation, did nothing. . . . this is the same Don Surine whom McCarthy kept on the committee staff at the taxpayers' expense until recently barred as a security risk by the Defense Department.

MARYLAND ELECTIONS — A Senate committee spent months hearing evidence on McCarthy's involvement in the 1950 Maryland elections. It found that McCarthy had raised money from the Chicago Tribune and the Texas oil millionaires . . . . it showed how he faked a photo of Communist Leader Earl Browder in supposed friendly pose with Senator Tydings . . . . it showed how the same Don Surine had taken William Fedder, a Baltimore printer, for an all-night ride in an effort to bulldoze him into surrendering a letter from John Butler, who, in defeating Tydings, had made Fedder a financial pledge in violation of the corrupt practices act. . . . . all this was sworn testimony . . . . the Senate investigating committee referred the entire matter to the Justice Department for possible prosecution, but Attorney General Brownell quietly let the statute of limitations expire. Just a few months later Brownell found himself in the position of publicly blasting McCarthy for trying to set up his own anti-Eisenhower Gestapo . . . . meanwhile the same Don Surine still continues on the payroll—even today. He's now working in McCarthy's office.

STATE DEPARTMENT COMMUNISTS—McCarthy's charges of Communists in the State Department were investigated for months. First he said there were 205 card-carrying Communists known to Dean Acheson. Then he changed the figure to 57, then to 81—all in one week. Then he claimed he had never made the charge of 205 Communists—though the staff of the Wheeling, W. Va., radio station where he spoke swore under oath in the Benton libel suit that McCarthy had made exactly that statement . . . . the Senate probe ended with a majority voting McCarthy could not substantiate his charges, but with Senator Lodge of Massachusetts voting with McCarthy . . . . last spring, ironically, McCarthy castigated Senator Lodge as among those participating in an anti-McCarthy meeting at the Justice Department . . . . McCarthy's Communist charges were pretty well punctured when General Bedell Smith, Eisenhower's Undersecretary of State and his chief of staff in Europe, swore under oath last winter that no Communists had been discovered in the State Department.

McCARTHY'S FINANCES—This probe lasted a year and a half. It not only confirmed the $10,000 Lustron fee previously exposed in this column, but showed that McCarthy had used $10,000 advanced him to fight Communism by Congressman and Mrs. Bentley of Michigan to speculate for his own profit on the soybean market. It also showed how he owed $170,029.03 to the Appleton State Bank when first elected to Congress in 1946, but had wiped out that indebtedness while in the Senate . . . . it showed unidentified cash deposits of $19,000 and unidentified deposits of $59,592.52 . . . . all this and a great deal more the new McCarthy committee can find, sworn to under oath, in previous reports on the harum-sacrum junior Senator from Wisconsin. The investigation should not require too much time.

Movie Is Chiller

By Bob Considine

NEW YORK—(INS)—The passing show—

Bothered by Old Sol, as we baseball writers must call the sun under pain of having our cards picked up? Well then just look in on Hitchcock's new movie, "Rear Window." It's a good 80 degrees chillier inside Hitchcock. People come out too chilled to talk.

With the help of Jimmy Stewart, Grace Kelly, (who is the third champion in that family), Thelma Ritter, Wendell Corey and one of the most menacing heavies movie audiences will ever shrink from, Raymond Burr, Hitchcock has told the tensest, tightest story of the year through the pinched sight of a pair of binoculars and a Leica's telephoto lens.

Cornell Woolrich's short story about a photographer with a broken leg who sweats out his long weeks in a cast by playing the part of a reflective Peeping Tom has been woven into a fine script by John Michael Hayes. Hayes apparently doesn't believe that canard about the 12-year-old mental age of the average moviegoer.

Stewart, Mr. Peeper, viewing neighbors through the rear window of his West 12th Street (NY) room, comes to the stunned conclusion that the man across the court (Burr) has murdered his nagging and invalided wife, diced her, and distributed her about the city.

Nobody will believe him. Until—

Well, that's why Paramount made it. To pry you away from those dreary TV summer replacements.

Speaking of TV, a man with the highly improbable name of Marvin Middlemark and some engineers from the altogether probable Crosley Company have combined to make it possible for your favorite ball club to follow you (TV-wise) on fishing trips, railroad trains, planes, autos, and ox-carts.

Middlemark has produced a new TV antenna which is claimed to pluck what you want, and maybe ever some J. Arthur Rank pictures starring George Arliss, from more than 100 miles away. Crosley has reversed the trend toward big sized screens, in one model, and put out a job they feel is big enough, can be packed by a modestly strong viewer, and lends itself to the lesser power of moving vehicles, boats.

No place to hide.

Here's what the perfection of atomic energy (for destruction and for power) would mean in the airplane field:

One bomber of today, carrying a single H-bomb, could carry 1,000,000 times as much destructive force as all (and I repeal all) the B-17 Flying Fortresses that bombed Berlin in World War II.

When the ideal atomic airplane engine comes along (several of the major companies and the Atomic Energy Commission are at work on this) a single pound of uranium or plutonium will produce the present power of 2,000,000 pounds of high octane gasoline.

The world of the inner atom makes reason totter. At the General Electric-operated plant at Hanford, Wash., certain special materials are sealed in aluminum cans before being placed in the atomic piles. When "cooked" the trouble begins.

The cans are moved by remote control to rooms heavily sealed to prevent the escape of radiation. Strange steel "arms" and "claws" reach from the ceiling, operated from perhaps a quarter of a mile away by a man or woman whose eyes are the TV set inside the poisoned room and the receiver in the distant control room. The claws are made to seize the can and a $1,900 can opener. In a brisk hour and 15 minutes the can is open.

Almost any summer bachelor can beat that. Got a can of beans open in 58 minutes flat myself the other day. My croaker just called to say the wounds should heal by Thanksgiving, give or take a week.

Reds Working Hard To Kill Asia NATO

Communist China, releasing almost daily broadcasts from Peiping threatening to "annihilate" Chiang Kai-shek, etc., is busily engaged in attempts to line up Asiatic nations on its side. Red China wasted no time after the Indochina surrender to indicate she didn't think the U. S. had a copyright on an Asian alliance.

Peiping promptly announced it was contacting India, Burma, Ceylon, Indonesia and other nations for the purpose of forming its own all-Asiatic mutual defense setup. These are the so-called uncommitted nations that the U. S. seeks to weld into an anti-communist bloc. But the communists, riding high on a triumphant wave, intend to checkmate U. S. plans.

Active communist diplomatic competition is just one hurdle the U. S. must clear before perfecting the proposed Southeast Asian Treaty Organization. France —which has just been defeated by the communists in Indochina—and Britain—which prefers Red China to Chiang Kai-shek—have shown no enthusiasm for the proposed anti-communist alliance.

Assuming an alliance is put together — and Washington is not too optimistic — how would the Asian signatories keep communist infiltrators from insinuating themselves in strength behind their lines? In a recent interview Richard G. Casey, Australian minister for external affairs, admitted that this was a problem for which no immediate solution was in sight.

Establishment of an Asian NATO will take forthright U. S. leadership and creative diplomacy of a brand not too much in evidence in Asiatic dealings.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Censorship By Indirection

In the 1952 campaign, the Democrats made a great to-do about the One Party Press. Of course, there is no such thing in this country. American newspapers have been called all sorts of names from the "Uptown Daily Worker" to the "Wall Street Kept Press," but the truth is not in such phrases. In fact, even inside the pages of each newspaper that is not strictly propagandistic, there are great differences in the presentation and interpretation of identical facts.

What brings this up is the testimony of Representative Martin Dies before the Jenner Committee. Dies is describing the hoax put over by some Left Wing reporters that Dr. J. B. Matthews testified before the old Dies Committee, nearly 20 years ago, that Shirley Temple was a Communist. Matthews did no such thing. He had actually said that a message appeared in "Ce Soir" in Paris which bore many names, none of which was related to a Communist, and that among them was the name of Shirley Temple. Matthews had used that as an example of how the Communists abuse innocent people.

Dies was incensed. And here is his story of what happened on radio:

"Immediately I asked for time on the radio. NBC wouldn't let me have the time. They told me frankly they were afraid of executive influence. Columbia wouldn't let me have the time . . .

". . . Then I got the time at Mutual, but Mutual weakened at the last moment and finally said to me, 'You have got to submit your manuscript because Michelson has insisted that we let Paul Anderson follow you on the radio, and he is speaking for the White House and the White House wants you to surrender your manuscript to Paul Anderson.'

"I said, 'I am not going to do it.' I said, 'I have been attacked all over the country. I am entitled to go on the air and I am not going to submit the manuscript.'

"For a time it looked as though I would not be permitted to go on the air. Finally I did go on the air, and I just simply read the testimony, the transcript, to show the people that it (the Shirley Temple story) was not true."

The radio industry ought to take this testimony seriously because it is a direct accusation that radio connives at accepting censorship. Here is sworn testimony which is either true or Martin Dies has committed perjury. I was recently told that one of the most prominent nation-wide commentators lost a great many local outlets because he "told the truth," as his friends put it, about the McCarthy hearings. Rightist commentators have difficulty finding sponsors, although Rightest columnists have, in the aggregate, more newspapers than the Left Wing columnists. If they do so well in the newspapers, why do they have so much trouble getting sponsors on radio?

If Charles Michelson, who was Roosevelt's press agent, could require a radio network to submit a Congressman's manuscript to an antagonistic newspaperman, is it possible that similar operations are in practice today? Does that explain the difficulties of Right Wing commentators on radio and television? They are regarded as controversial, but the Left Wingers are not controversial. How come?

The other night, at an after midnight party, I listened to an explanation of how best-seller lists are manipulated to favor Leftist authors. I resolved never again to look at a best seller list unless printed along each listing are the figures of total sales up-to-date. As a matter of fact, some of the books listed sell fewer copies than books that are only listed once or not at all.

Who organizes these queer operations? Martin Dies's report of his experience with radio is similar to reports I have heard from other public men. Only two television companies were willing to show the whole, unedited McCarthy-Stevens hearings, the American Broadcasting Company and Du Mont. The National Broadcasting Company gave only the Stevens testimony; Columbia gave no unedited version. The late-at-night edited version omitted what they did not want the people to see, on the firm ground that they had to cut out something, and they used their own judgment. That is an editorial prerogative and risk.

It would be interesting to hear what the radio companies have to say about Martin Dies's sworn testimony.

Memory Book Includes Portraits Of Past Greats

By Brother Barnabas

A funeral service was being held in an undertaker's parlor for a man of doubtful reputation and the preacher was at a loss to know what favorable word he might say about the departed.

When he had finished his brief remarks he asked if any one present wished to add a few words to the tribute.

There was a long silence. Finally, a man rose and said: "If nobody cares to speak, I would like to say a few words about the climate of southern California."

Down in Washington just now a senatorial inquisition is being held to decide what to do about our proverbial "Peck's Bad Boy," — whether to "put the wraps" on him, or apply whitewash and turn him loose—whether to put him in the doghouse or award him the Nobel Prize for being the nation's most distinguished political scavenger.

Turn Pages

While the matter is being debated, this space-filler would like to turn a few pages of his memory book featuring some celebrities with whom he has had contacts more or less remote, about whom there has hovered no smell of smoke.

Herbert Clark Hoover was and is one of America's most influential statesmen and benefactors as history proves. Next Tuesday, August 10, he will be 80. Send him a birthday card.

Chip Off Block

His son, Herbert, Jr., has just done a remarkable work in settling the Anglo-Iranian oil dispute, proving that he is a "chip off the old block."

The nearest I ever came to a multimillionaire was when John D. Rockefeller, Jr. was a member of the "Inter-church World Movement" meeting in Atlantic City. One day the conference reached an impasse and he spoke the word that cut the Gordian knot.

The next day we passed on the boardwalk. He was being pushed in a wheel chair, I was walking. He spoke pleasantly and would have invited me to ride beside him, I verily believe, had his wife not been riding with him. He was that kind of a man.

He is said to be the greatest benefactor and hardest-working servant the American people have ever known; yet he is modest and retiring.

Check Bounced

John D. Jr. once had a check "bounce." (Bankers are so particular!) He had forgotten to append "Jr." to his signature. They have bounced for me too, but for a different reason.

Charles Warren Fairbanks was U. S. Senator from Indiana from 1897 to 1905, and Vice-Pres. with "Teddy" Roosevelt from 1905 to 1909.

He was 6 ft. and 3 inches tall, straight as an Indian, graceful as a swan, a flamboyant personality.

The writer was accorded a half-hour interview in his home in Indianapolis on day. He did most of the talking. He told about being in New York at the time of the famous "Beecher trial." He wanted to hear the man preach, and was told to "cross the bridge and follow the crowd" which he did.

Landed In Balcony

Every seat was taken, except the last one in the balcony where he finally landed. In the sermon Beecher told of an eccentric "cut in Indiana" who slept under the same roof with his hogs.

He cut a hole up the upstairs floor, and when the hogs below quarreled he punched them with a long sharp-pointed pike through the trapdoor, until they quieted down.

The story was in illustration of the conflict between the animal and spiritual natures of man, the one needing to be brought under control by the other.

As we stood to say Goodbye, he suavely said: "Mrs. Fairbanks will be so sorry to have missed your call. I'll tell her of it when she returns home."

Time fails me for more than mention of some of the celebrities who have "passed from the shifting sands" but whose names are inscribed in my album of fame; such immortals as:

"Teddy" Roosevelt who said "Don't flinch; don't foul; hit the line hard, and "Speak softly and carry a big stick."

Climbed Ladder

Franklin Delano Roosevelt, who climbed the ladder of fame against almost insuperable handicaps.

Booker T. Washington who founded Tuskegee Institute in 1881 and remained its president until his death. I heard him say: "I'se not colored; I'se born that way."

William E. Barton, an authority on Lincolniana, father of Bruce Barton.

Washington Gladden, F. W. Gunsaulus, John Henry Barrows, Roman Catholic Archbishop Glennon and John Henry Jowett were silver-tongued pulpit orators whose memories I cherish.

"Let us now praise famous men, and our fathers who begat us. Such as did bear rule in their kingdoms, men renowned for their power, giving counsel by their understanding . . . leaders of the people by their counsels, wise and eloquent in their instructions."

Retrospectively yours,

Brother Barnabas

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

Reason we didn't sign the French peace treaty is we have trouble enough.

French might have won if they could have dug up a Vietnam who looked like Lafayette.

They say the more a thing changes the more it looks the same. But you can fatigue your pockets paying for the duplications.

This is amputation at the 17th Parallel for 12,000,000 Vietnamese. Sir Winnie Churchill congratulates Anthony Eden for what? A solo in a Homburg?

The London Times says the result was gained by imaginative skill of Eden in private talks with Molotov. They both must have walked in the same direction.

We agree with the Manchester Guardian that tension has relaxed. The same thing happens in a watch when the main spring breaks.

Ike fired a statement through the White House upper turret saying he was happy the war was over and the border skirmishes had started. There is nothing so contented as good neighbors winking at each other through a knothole in a spite fence.

Although we were as neutral as distilled water, don't forget the French wanted to deal us in at Dien Bien Phu. We couldn't spare the time from the Bums-Giants series.

Secretary Water Bedell Smith issued a statement which was a unilateral soliloquy in philosophical disgust. What can't be cured must be endured and you can thank your grandmother for that crack.

Taking it all in all we've had it. There will be counter-treaties and post-treaties signed until they both get one they're sure the other side likes less than they do.

That's diplomacy of purest rage serene.

In the unbalanced interim Mendes-France has been cheered by the French Lunch Club of Deputies. He will stage a parade on the Champs soon as he can locate one of Charley de Gaulle's old permits.

Many Childhood Health Hazards Are Being Overcome

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

The health of the baby begins with the health of the mother. Women are encouraged to visit the physician during the early months of pregnancy to avoid complications. They are taught the needs for proper rest, adequate diet, reasonable gain in weight, good hygiene, and repeated examinations.

Following confinement, the baby is confronted with the hazards of infancy. At the turn of the century, many infants died from acute and chronic nutritional diseases, diphtheria, congenital venereal disease, diarrhea, or pneumonia. These conditions now are rare but not forgotten. They seldom arise because most mothers want their offspring to obtain nourishing food, including minerals and vitamins, and cooperate with the physician on early vaccinations to combat contagious diseases.

Whooping cough during the first year of life is a threat because the newcomers have no inherited immunity. As a result, a pertussis vaccine is recommended within the first six months. How effective is this vaccine? In a recent study of 493 inoculated and 438 control infants who had been exposed to household whooping cough, 89.7 per cent of the controls and 13.2 per cent of the protected youngsters developed the disease.

Diphtheria "shots" also are necessary even though the malady is not common. The same can be said of smallpox; its incidence is low yet outbreaks continue to occur, demonstrating that the disorder still is present. Immunization against tetanus is essential and, to save on the number of visits and injections, physicians usually combine diphtheria, tetanus, and whooping cough serum into a single dose.

Though we have gained the upper hand over contagious diseases, accidents remain killers and cripplers. As the child grows, he has more freedom of action and is likely to get into trouble. He can roll off the bed or bath table; toddlers reach for electrical appliances or the handles of a saucepan of boiling water. Such pitfalls nowadays are more serious than all the contagious diseases combined. Until an accident preventive is found we must rely upon education of the community, the family, and the individual.

Modern children also are better off now that more parents realize that youngsters grow at their own pace. The bookworm next door is no longer put on a pedestal or cited as an example of how Johnny ought to behave. The same can be said when Mary is slow to learn toilet training, buttoning her shoes, or combing her hair. This attitude encourages self-confidence and discourages feelings of resentment that are engendered by not being able to keep up with other children.

BLOOD AND ALLERGY

F. L. writes: Does allergy show up in the blood?

REPLY

Indirect evidence is obtained by studying the blood cells, which usually show an increase in the number of eosinophils. These large white cells are loaded with granules that take on a red stain.

INNATE PECULIARITIES

H. F. writes: Do inherited characteristics become more pronounced during the menopause?

REPLY

Not as a rule. During this period, nervous traits and emotional disturbances may become more pronounced but they may or may not be inherited.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Taken by his mom to a Western Arizona art exhibit, little Jimmy yanked his mother's dress and pointed to a futuristic daub in a big, white frame. "What' that?" he demanded.

Ma studied the picture carefully, then explained, "It's supposed to be a cowboy and his horse."

Jimmy looked skeptical, and then asked, "Well, why ain't it?"

The son of one of Minnesota's hardy Swedish pioneers was visiting a friend out West. The Westerner began to brag about the wonderful echo in his valley. "If you stand and call 'John Smith,' " he declared, "you will hear no less than thirteen echoes of it."

"That's nothing at all," belittled the man from Minnesota. "Just outside of Minneapolis there's a high hill. If you climb to the summit and call 'Ole Oleson,' you'll immediately hear the echo, saying, 'Which one?' "

Movie Is Chiller

By Bob Considine

NEW YORK—(INS)—The passing show—

Bothered by Old Sol, as we baseball writers must call the sun under pain of having our cards picked up? Well then just look in on Hitchcock's new movie, "Rear Window." It's a good 80 degrees chillier inside Hitchcock. People come out too chilled to talk.

With the help of Jimmy Stewart, Grace Kelly, (who is the third champion in that family), Thelma Ritter, Wendell Corey and one of the most menacing heavies movie audiences will ever shrink from, Raymond Burr, Hitchcock has told the tensest, tightest story of the year through the pinched sight of a pair of binoculars and a Leica's telephoto lens.

Cornell Woolrich's short story about a photographer with a broken leg who sweats out his long weeks in a cast by playing the part of a reflective Peeping Tom has been woven into a fine script by John Michael Hayes. Hayes apparently doesn't believe that canard about the 12-year-old mental age of the average moviegoer.

Stewart, Mr. Peeper, viewing neighbors through the rear window of his West 12th Street (NY) room, comes to the stunned conclusion that the man across the court (Burr) has murdered his nagging and invalided wife, diced her, and distributed her about the city.

Nobody will believe him. Until—

Well, that's why Paramount made it. To pry you away from those dreary TV summer replacements.

Speaking of TV, a man with the highly improbable name of Marvin Middlemark and some engineers from the altogether probable Crosley Company have combined to make it possible for your favorite ball club to follow you (TV-wise) on fishing trips, railroad trains, planes, autos, and ox-carts.

Middlemark has produced a new TV antenna which is claimed to pluck what you want, and maybe ever some J. Arthur Rank pictures starring George Arliss, from more than 100 miles away. Crosley has reversed the trend toward big sized screens, in one model, and put out a job they feel is big enough, can be packed by a modestly strong viewer, and lends itself to the lesser power of moving vehicles, boats.

No place to hide.

Here's what the perfection of atomic energy (for destruction and for power) would mean in the airplane field:

One bomber of today, carrying a single H-bomb, could carry 1,000,000 times as much destructive force as all (and I repeal all) the B-17 Flying Fortresses that bombed Berlin in World War II.

When the ideal atomic airplane engine comes along (several of the major companies and the Atomic Energy Commission are at work on this) a single pound of uranium or plutonium will produce the present power of 2,000,000 pounds of high octane gasoline.

The world of the inner atom makes reason totter. At the General Electric-operated plant at Hanford, Wash., certain special materials are sealed in aluminum cans before being placed in the atomic piles. When "cooked" the trouble begins.

The cans are moved by remote control to rooms heavily sealed to prevent the escape of radiation. Strange steel "arms" and "claws" reach from the ceiling, operated from perhaps a quarter of a mile away by a man or woman whose eyes are the TV set inside the poisoned room and the receiver in the distant control room. The claws are made to seize the can and a $1,900 can opener. In a brisk hour and 15 minutes the can is open.

Almost any summer bachelor can beat that. Got a can of beans open in 58 minutes flat myself the other day. My croaker just called to say the wounds should heal by Thanksgiving, give or take a week.

Weber Rites Set Today

First World War Vet Was Local Mound Ace

Final rites will be conducted today at 9 a. m. in St. Mary's Church for Bernard A. "Weber, 61, one-time local pitching star, who died Wednesday morning at his home on Gleason street.

"Bern," as he was better known, pitched for Manager Pat King's Y.M.I. team in the City League that functioned here following the close of the First World War. Frank Molinari's North Cumberland Pirates, Paul K. Collins' Liberty A. C., Frank Birmingham's Western Maryland Railway Club and the B. & O. Y.M.C.A. were the other clubs of the circuit that played twilight ball.

Weber boxed as a lightweight while in the army during the First World War. He was wounded in action in France and he spoke German so fluently that he was made an interpreter for prisoners of war.

Before and after the war, "Bern" also played baseball for Col. Nelson Russler's Colts, the Cumberland Cubs, B.&O. and last but not least the first team organized by Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion. Fred Walton was commander of the post and Walter T. Hensel, now of Valley Road, managed the team. His teammates included Arthur Spearman, W. Earl Brooks, Robert "Red" Hanley, Tommy Maus, "Peck" O'Neill, Leo Burke, "Ike" McGrady, Bill Danahey and Matt Kehoe.

Full military honors will be accorded at the graveside by Fort Cumberland Post, American Legion, and Henry Hart Post, V.F.W.

Weber is survived by his widow and one son Robert L., 22; one brother, Frank N., Greene street, and three sisters.

Orioles Buy Bob Kuzava

World Series Hero Sold By Yankees

BALTIMORE, Aug. 6 (AP) — Bob Kuzava, 31-year-old Yankee southpaw who pulled the New Yorkers out of two World Series tight spots, was bought by the Baltimore Orioles today.

Art Ehlers, general manager announced the purchase. He would not disclose the price but said the Orioles paid more than the $10,000 waiver price for Kuzava.

Kuzava entered professional ball in 1941 with the Cleveland chain. He played for the old International League Orioles in 1947 when he had a 14-13 record and again in 1948 when he won 9 and lost 16.

He played with Chicago and Washington before going to New York in 1951.

In the final game of the Giants-Yankee World Series in 1951, Kuzava was called in to put down a Giant uprising and pitched hitless ball for the final inning. He also put out a Dodger fire in the 1952 series when he held the opposition hitless for 2 2-3 innings as a reliefer in the final game.

Kuzava has appeared in 20 games this year, winning 1 and losing 3. In 40 innings, he has given up 30 runs, 24 of them earned on 46 hits.

Hadra Is Victor, 5-1

Mike Hadra tossed a one-hitter and whiffed 11 as the Dodgers, managed by Jim Gaffney and Al Hargreaves, whipped the Tigers to the tune of 5-1 last night at Penn Avenue Field in a Dan Division game.

Tim Kienhofer slammed a triple, double and single for the winners. White also rapped a three-bagger. Score:

DODGERS	122 000—5 9 1
TIGERS	000 010—1 1 0

Hadra and Chirdon. England, Imes (3) and Dela Grange.

Dapper Phillies Win

Hammond of the Phillies and Gary Mower of the Yankees belted home runs. John Stevens and Charley Boone of the winners and Mower of the Yankees had two hits each. Score:

PHILLIES	200 043—9 7 1
YANKEES	101 040—6 5 3

Hudson, Nave (5) and Nave, Hudson. Aaron and Felton. Burke (3).

Antonelli, who came to the Giants from the Braves during the winter, hadn't lost since May 21, but he couldn't get through the fourth inning tonight.

Dark's second homer came during a ninth-inning rally that fell a run short. It was followed by a blast into the seats by Dusty Rhodes. Catcher Ray Katt homered for New York in the fifth. Rhodes' and Katt's drives also came with nobody on.

The Giants lost a full game of their lead since Brooklyn defeated Cincinnati 8-1. Milwaukee, in third place, moved to 9½ games of the top.

Cards Claim Wade

BROOKLYN, Aug. 6 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals today claimed Ben Wade, Brooklyn righthanded pitcher, for the $10,000 waiver price.

Wade, who came to the Dodgers in 1952 from Hollywood in the Pacific Coast League, will join the Cards immediately in Pittsburgh. Wade, from Pasadena, Calif., had appeared in 23 games for the Dodgers this year, winning one game and losing one. Last year he had a 7-5 mark in 32 appearances.

Phils Trim Cubs

Horvath Leads A-A Golf Meet

Babe Zaharias Posts 69 And Earns $1,500

CHICAGO, Aug. 6 (AP) — Rudy Horvath, a high-strung, diminutive from Canada, took the halfway lead in the $25,000 All-American Golf Tournament today but the incomparable Babe Zaharias stole the show at Tam O'Shanter with a record-smashing performance.

Horvath's second round of 69—giving him a 36-hole tally of seven-under-par 137—was matched by Babe in breaking her own competitive course record.

The indomitable woman athlete who overcame a cancer operation 16 months ago, clipped seven strokes off women's par with a 33—a record first nine for women—and 36.

The torrid 69 broke Babe's own Tam record of 36-34 set in 1950 and earned her a $1,500 reward donated by promoter George S. May for lowering the mark.

May's $10,000 offer to the male pro breaking Lloyd Mangrum's course mark of 63 in 1948 looked safe.

Pete Cooper, 39-year-old pro and truck farm operator near Tampa, Fla.; Henry Ransom, Pontiac, Mich., 1950 winner of the "world" championship, and Marty Furgol each posted 68's today. Paye Wins, 6-2; Murray Loses, 5-0; Hagerstown Opponent Today At 10

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Aug. 6 (AP) — Colmar Manor of Prince Georges County won its second straight shutout today to remain the only undefeated team in the American Legion State Junior Baseball tournament.

Six games were played, three on the University of Maryland campus here and three at nearby Greenbelt as tournament officials stepped up the schedule to make up for rainouts yesterday.

Colmar Manor, 1-0 winner over Sharptown of Wicomico County yesterday, downed Cumberland, 5-0, on a four-hit shutout performance by Jack Carter. He struck out 10 and walked only four in holding the Western Marylanders scoreless.

Cumberland snapped back in its second game to defeat Bel Air, 6-2 and eliminate the Harford Countians from the double elimination contest. Sharptown had downed Bel Air, 9-6, earlier.

Another outstanding pitching performance was turned in by Frank Novak of Pikesville, 7-1 victor over Hagerstown. Novak had a shutout working until the top of the ninth when two errors by teammates put a runner on first and allowed him to score.

In other games today, Hagerstown defeated Westport, 6-2, and Westport downed Pikesville, 5-1.

Weber Rites Set Today

First World War Vet Was Local Mound Ace

Final rites will be conducted today at 9 a. m. in St. Mary's Church for Bernard A. 'Veber, 61, one-time local pitching star, who died Wednesday morning at his home on Gleason street.

"Bern," as he was better known, pitched for Manager Pat King's Y.M.I. team in the City League that functioned here following the close of the First World War. Frank Molinari's North Cumberland Pirates, Paul K. Collins' Liberty A. C., Frank Birmingham's Western Maryland Railway Club and the B. & O. Y.M.C.A. were the other clubs of the circuit that played twilight ball.

Weber boxed as a lightweight while in the army during the First World War. He was wounded in action in France and he spoke German so fluently that he was made an interpreter for prisoners of war.

Before and after the war, "Bern" also played baseball for Col. Nelson Russler's Colts, the Cumberland Cubs, B.&O. and last but not least the first team organized by Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion. Fred Walton was commander of the post and Walter T. Hensel, now of Valley Road, managed the team. His teammates included Arthur Spearman, W. Earl Brooks, Robert "Red" Hanley, Tommy Maus, "Peck" O'Neill, Leo Burke, "Ike" McGrady, Bill Danahey and Matt Kehoe.

Full military honors will be accorded at the graveside by Fort Cumberland Post, American Legion, and Henry Hart Post, V.F.W.

Weber is survived by his widow and one son Robert L., 22; one brother, Frank N., Greene street, and three sisters.

Orioles Buy Bob Kuzava

World Series Hero Sold By Yankees

BALTIMORE, Aug. 6 (AP) — Bob Kuzava, 31-year-old Yankee southpaw who pulled the New Yorkers out of two World Series tight spots, was bought by the Baltimore Orioles today.

Art Ehlers, general manager announced the purchase. He would not disclose the price but said the Orioles paid more than the $10,000 waiver price for Kuzava.

Kuzava entered professional ball in 1941 with the Cleveland chain. He played for the old International League Orioles in 1947 when he had a 14-13 record and again in 1948 when he won 9 and lost 16.

He played with Chicago and Washington before going to New York in 1951.

In the final game of the Giants-Yankee World Series in 1951, Kuzava was called in to put down a Giant uprising and pitched hitless ball for the final inning. He also put out a Dodger fire in the 1952 series when he held the opposition hitless for 2 2-3 innings as a reliefer in the final game.

Kuzava has appeared in 20 games this year, winning 1 and losing 3. In 40 innings, he has given up 30 runs, 24 of them earned on 46 hits.

Horvath Leads A-A Golf Meet

Babe Zaharias Posts 69 And Earns $1,500

CHICAGO, Aug. 6 (AP) — Rudy Horvath, a high-strung, diminutive from Canada, took the halfway lead in the $25,000 All-American Golf Tournament today but the incomparable Babe Zaharias stole the show at Tam O'Shanter with a record-smashing performance.

Horvath's second round of 69—giving him a 36-hole tally of seven-under-par 137—was matched by Babe in breaking her own competitive course record.

The indomitable woman athlete who overcame a cancer operation 16 months ago, clipped seven strokes off women's par with a 33—a record first nine for women—and 36.

The torrid 69 broke Babe's own Tam record of 36-34 set in 1950 and earned her a $1,500 reward donated by promoter George S. May for lowering the mark.

May's $10,000 offer to the male pro breaking Lloyd Mangrum's course mark of 63 in 1948 looked safe.

Pete Cooper, 39-year-old pro and truck farm operator near Tampa, Fla.; Henry Ransom, Pontiac, Mich., 1950 winner of the "world" championship, and Marty Furgol each posted 68's today. Cooper shared second place at 138 with Jerry Barber of La Canada, Calif., who added a 70 to his first round 68, and British Open champion Peter Thomson of Australia, who also coupled a 70 with 68. Furgol was bracketed by himself at 139.

A stroke behind, at 140, were Bill Markham, Belgian Flory Van Donck, Chandler Harper, Bud Holscher and late starter Bob Toski, a little demon on the tourney swing this season who equalled his starting 70.

Myers To Play Royal In Finale At Mt. Lake

MT. LAKE PARK, Md., Aug. 6—John Myers, 21-year-old Washingtonian, and Doyal Royal, assistant dean of men at the University of Maryland, will meet tomorrow in the finals of the Western Maryland Tennis Tournament.

Myers eliminated Alex Keiles, 6-3, 6-1, and Royal won over Griff Baugher, Baltimore, 8-6, 9-7 in today's semi-finals.

Jane Freeman, Washington, D. C., defeated Sara Moore, Washington, 6-4, 6-3, and will play Mrs. Margaret Disco, Forest Hills, N. Y., in the women's finals Saturday at 10:30 a. m. The men's title match is set for 2 p. m.

Aussie Net Stars Make Clean Sweep

SOUTH ORANGE, N. J., Aug. 6 (AP)—Lewis Hoad and Ken Rosewall, Australia's young Davis Cuppers, both advanced today into the semi-final round of Eastern Grass Court Championships at the Orange Lawn Tennis Club.

Hoad swept to a 6-2, 6-1 triumph over third-seeded Gardnar Mulloy of Miami, Fla., while Rosewall was put through a severe test before defeating Edward Moylan of Trenton, 7-5, 7-9, 6-1.

Cleveland Wins, 7-3

CLEVELAND, Aug. 6 (AP) — The Cleveland Indians, scoring five runs in the second inning, whipped the Philadelphia Athletics 7-3 tonight in the opener of a four-game series.

Mike Garcia pitched an 8-hitter as he won his 13th victory against five defeats. Al Sima was charged with the loss after being relieved in the second inning during the Tribe's big rally.

Muscular Dystrophy Group Formed Here

A Cumberland chapter of the Muscular Dystrophy Association of America was organized at a meeting Thursday night at the Central YMCA.

The local chapter will cover Allegany and Garrett counties in its efforts to aid the victims of the baffling disease.

The national association gives financial support through research grants to scientists and physicians in the United States and abroad to try to find the cause and cure of the disease.

Aids In Many Ways

It also defrays expenses of orthopedic appliances, physica' therapy, speech therapy and pyschiatric assistance to victims so that they may more easily adjust to their progressive conditions.

Officers and a board of directors were elected last night. Charles M. See was named president; James E. Robertson, firs vice president; Albert A. Doub, second vice president; Miss Eudora Jochum, secretary, and Rudolph J. Kompanek, treasurer.

Directors are W. L. McIntosh, Fred Driscoll, Carl Amtower, Carl Winfield, Robert F. Moore, Orville G. Swartley, John E. Trimble and Mrs. R. J. Kompanek.

The local chapter will assist the families of the ten known cases of muscular dystrophy.

Representative Here

Here for the organization was Robert O. Bennett, national representative of the MDAA.

Muscular dystrophy is a chronic disease of the muscles. It is manifested by gradual weakening of the voluntary muscles. Over a period of years the wasting and resultant weakening becomes progressively apparent and the patient is confined to a wheel chair and eventually to his bed.

There is nothing new known to science which can stop the progress of this disease. Once the disease starts, it follows a steady downhill course. Progressively with the weakening and wasting of the muscles, the patient has more and more difficulty in getting about. Gradually all the voluntary muscles of the body are affected and the victim is helpless. Even a simple cold make it impossible to cough or sneeze.

Commissioners Open Bids On Grader

Bids on a new motorized patrol grader for use by the Allegany County Roads Department were opened yesterday morning by the Board of Commissioners.

No decision was made on which machine to purchase pending a tabulation of the bids.

Five firms bid on furnishing the grader. They are John C. Lewis Company, Beckwith Machinery Company, McClung-Logan Equipment Company, Rish Equipment Company, and John W. Patterson Company.

About 651,500 tons of wire nails were made in the United States in 1953.

Stuffed Pet Show Held At Playground

Winners in a stuffed pet show Wednesday at Gephart Playground were Valery Sandhoff, oldest; Douglas Kight, largest; Donna Stine, smallest; Chris Kight, most unusual; Pattie Snyder, most cuddlesome; Betty Miller, prettiest, and Lee Miller, funniest.

Judges were Douglas Sullivan and Ronald Whetsell.

Children registered at the playfield will assemble at 9:30 a. m. today to hike to Constitution Park for the city picnic. Children are to provide their own lunches.

Four Trustees Are Named For Scouts Tract Of Land

WESTERNPORT—Four trustees of the land the Beryl Troop deeded to the Tri-Towns District Boy Scouts were recently named by Carl McMillen, district chairman, at the monthly meeting of the scouters.

They are Orville Teets, Swanton; Alton R. Fortney, Luke; Noel Obershain, Piedmont, and Harry J. Biggs.

The deed includes for four and half acres of land situated in the Green Glades section of Deep Creek Lake.

It was purchased originally by the Beryl Troop from money realized in scrap drives during World War II.

Alton R. Fortney was reelected chairman of the camping and activities committee, an office he has held for several years.

Plans were inaugurated for the holding of a "Bottle Round Up". The scouts would gather all soft drink bottles in a house to house canvass. The tentative date set for the new project is September 10-11.

Definite plans for the drive will be made at the next meeting.

Plans were discussed for the holding of a dinner meeting at Potomac Camp October 5.

Property Delinquency Is Cited At Keyser

KEYSER — Sheriff Earl E. Kemp, Mineral County, reported, following a meeting of the County Court yesterday morning, that the delinquent list of real estate and personal property in the county was not approved and the court said it felt more outstanding taxes should have been collected.

The sheriff was notified to make another effort to collect the taxes even if he must attach and sell personal property.

Sheriff Kemp announced he is giving all delinquents one more chance to pay before August 10.

After that date he will start attachment proceedings and sell property for non-payment.

GOOD FIT CREATES RISK

WELL-FITTING suits are what the declarer usually likes to have. But there is one situation in which a specific risk is created by having a too-good fit. That comes when he essays a trump contract with a side suit in which he and his partner have too many cards. Too many? Absolutely—so many that one of the defenders may be void of it and hence able to ruff the opening lead.

	♠ Q 9 7 5 3 ♥ A ♦ Q 9 7 4 3 ♣ K Q
♠ None ♥ K Q 10 6 5 2 ♦ J 8 ♣ J 9 6 3 2	N W E S	♠ J 10 8 2 ♥ J 9 8 7 4 3 ♦ None ♣ 10 8 7
	♠ A K 6 4 ♥ None ♦ A K 10 6 5 2 ♣ A 5 4

7 ♦	Pass	Pass	7 ♥

East's double of the spade grand slam was terrible, when he was so pleased with the contract. West would have inferred, from North's pass of the 7-Diamonds that there was a fine diamond fit, so would have led the suit to give his partner the setting ruff. Even without that lead, East could have scored the setter with a trump trick.

North was smart in taking this out to 7-No Trumps. If South could bid a suit grand slam without knowing about the heart A, then the slam ought to be in the cards at No Trumps, without any risk of a ruff. Furthermore, if one of the suits didn't break favorably, maybe the other would. In brief, at No Trumps the declarer would have two strings to his bow. That's the way it worked out, as six tricks in diamonds, three in spades, three in clubs and one in hearts made the No Trump slam a sure thing.

* * *

Your Week-End Question

Do you understand the type of throw-in play whereby the declarer, with no tenace into which he makes a defender lead, nevertheless gains a trick by causing the lead of a suit in which both the dummy and closed hand are void? Can you recall a hand with such a play in it, or construct one to illustrate the several factors which must be present to make the device work?

Pass	Pass	7 NT

East's double of the spade grand slam was terrible, when he was so pleased with the contract. West would have inferred, from North's pass of the 7-Diamonds that there was a fine diamond fit, so would have led the suit to give his partner the setting ruff. Even without that lead, East could have scored the setter with a trump trick.

North was smart in taking this out to 7-No Trumps. If South could bid a suit grand slam without knowing about the heart A, then the slam ought to be in the cards at No Trumps, without any risk of a ruff. Furthermore, if one of the suits didn't break favorably, maybe the other would. In brief, at No Trumps the declarer would have two strings to his bow. That's the way it worked out, as six tricks in diamonds, three in spades, three in clubs and one in hearts made the No Trump slam a sure thing.

Your Week-End Question

Do you understand the type of throw-in play whereby the declarer, with no tenace into which he makes a defender lead, nevertheless gains a trick by causing the lead of a suit in which both the dummy and closed hand are void? Can you recall a hand with such a play in it, or construct one to illustrate the several factors which must be present to make the device work?

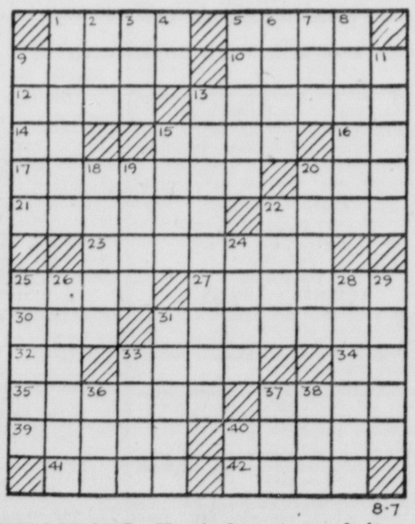
Yesterday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

BENNETT — The wife and family of the late Abraham Ritchie Bennett take this opportunity to thank the many friends and neighbors for their kindness in sending expressions of sympathy at the time of their bereavement.
Wife and Family.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our son, Richard K. Cook, who was killed in action in Korea, August 6, 1953.
Time will erase the trace of tears,
And a smile may wreath the face.
But the thoughts of our departed one,
In our hearts leaves a vacant place.
Vacant which can never be filled.
Oh no, we will not say, for we hope
To meet him there on some bright perfect day.
Sadly missed, Mr. and Mrs. Lon D. Cook and family.

BENNETT — The wife and family of the late Abraham Ritchie Bennett take this opportunity to thank the many friends and neighbors for their kindness in sending expressions of sympathy at the time of their bereavement.
Wife and Family.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our son, Richard K. Cook, who was killed in action in Korea, August 6, 1953.
Time will erase the trace of tears,
And a smile may wreath the face.
But the thoughts of our departed one,
In our hearts leaves a vacant place.
Vacant which can never be filled.
Oh no, we will not say, for we hope
To meet him there on some bright perfect day.
Sadly missed, Mr. and Mrs. Lon D. Cook and family.

DWELLING—PLUS INCOME

Due to owner leaving the City soon, I am offering a well built brick West Side dwelling which readily shows signs of much time and attention given to making a sturdy, tidy and desirable residence, even down to a lovely rear yard.

Owners occupy the 4 room and bath first floor and have a $150 monthly income from 2nd and 3rd floor apartments.

Purchased in 1948 the work and expense of renovating and modernizing has been considerable AND all of this is a gift to you at the $9850 sale price. To one who feels it difficult to acquire and finally pay-out on a home, take this and let it pay for itself. Must be seen to fully appreciate.

Due to owner leaving the City soon, I am offering a well built brick West Side dwelling which readily shows signs of much time and attention given to making a sturdy, tidy and desirable residence, even down to a lovely rear yard.

Owners occupy the 4 room and bath first floor and have a $150 monthly income from 2nd and 3rd floor apartments.

Two Killed In Hampshire Co. Accidents

Paw Paw Boy, Woman From Ohio Die In Two Crashes

Two separate fatal highway accidents occurred in Hampshire (W. Va.) County yesterday within about eight hours.

A 10-year-old Paw Paw boy was killed when struck along the highway by a motorist and an Ohio woman was killed in a headon collision near Romney.

Killed Instantly

Dennis Layne Brelsford, son of John E. and Edith (Ginevan) Brelsford, was reported killed instantly on Pinoak Mountain on Route 29 about eight miles south of Paw Paw.

Full details of the accident which occurred about 5:30 p. m., were not learned late last night. State Police at Romney said that the boy reportedly attended a birthday party and apparently was returning to his home.

Trooper C. D. Austin, is investigating for the State Police. The boy, police said, apparently darted into the path of the passing car, whose driver stopped to give assistance.

The boy was born March 9, 1944. The body is at the Park Funeral Home, Berkeley Springs, W. Va.

Mrs. Mattie Lou Bussard, 65, of Van Wert, Ohio, was fatally injured and three persons seriously hurt yesterday morning in a headon collision near Romney, W. Va.

The injured persons, who were rushed to Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, are the dead woman's husband, Rev. Bert Bussard, 65, pastor of Wesley Methodist Church, Van Wert, and Mr. and Mrs. LaFollette Otis Heltzel, of Monongah, W. Va.

Pastor Driving

State Police at Romney said the car being driven by Rev. Bussard, which was traveling west on Route 50 just west of Romney, attempted to pass several other westbound cars and crashed headon into the east-bound Heltzel machine.

The accident occurred on a downhill grade near the State Road Commission garage, at approximately 10:10 a. m.

Both cars were practically demolished and damage was estimated at approximately $4,000.

Rev. Bussard suffered a fractured left leg and lacerations of the head, hands and legs. Mrs. Heltzel, who was reported in critical condition, has a fractured pelvis and a fracture of her right leg. Her husband sustained facial lacerations and cuts about the hand, and a chest injury.

The body of Mrs. Bussard was taken to the Combs Funeral Home in Romney and relatives were notified.

Sgt. R. E. Schnell and Trooper C. D. Austin of the Romney barracks, West Virginia State Police, investigated the accident. No charges have been filed pending a complete investigation.

Carefree Boys Headed For Camp

In the good ol' summer time, just about the best way to enjoy a vacation is to pack up and head for a good camping area. That is just what this carefree group of Police Boys Club members has in mind and as the above picture was taken they were looking forward to a week of fun at Camp Royal, Belle Grove, along Sideling Hill Creek. At the extreme right is Officer Harry A. Iser, who will be in charge of the 25 boys who left yesterday morning from Constitution Park. And the campers will not be without music since one of the members already aboard the truck brought along his horn to provide entertainment.

City To Seek Federal Aid For Two Projects

$150,000 Savings Possible Under Plan

Mayor Roy W. Eves announced yesterday that the city is exploring the possibilities of securing federal aid in building the approach to the new Potomac River bridge at Riverside Park and for the new Baltimore Street Bridge which must be built in connection with the Cumberland - Ridgeley flood protection project.

The Cumberland approach to the new bridge at Riverside Park is to be built this fall at an estimated cost of about $63,000.

Current flood control schedules call for the Baltimore Street Bridge to be rebuilt about 1957. Final plans for the span have not been completed, but preliminary estimates indicate the cost will be about $230,000.

Ask Federal Aid

Both projects are being built in connection with the $17,000,000 flood control project and were to be financed from local funds supplied by the City of Cumberland and Allegany County.

The city has formally requested that the bridge approach be built as a Federal Aid Urban project, which would mean that up to half of the cost could be paid from federal funds.

Tentative plans are being made to request similar federal funds when the Baltimore Street Bridge has to be replaced in connection with the swift - channel program planned for Wills Creek.

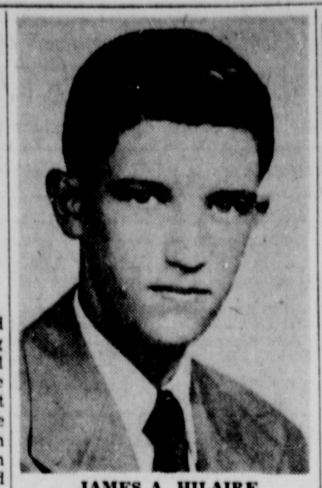
Do Not Qualify

Officials said federal participation might depend upon the availability of federal matching funds.

The Frederick Street improvement program has been certified as a federal urban aid project, with half the costs provided by the government.

Two other bridges to be replaced during the flood work, the Valley Street Bridge, which is now being built, and the Market Street Bridge, slated for construction when the Valley Street span is opened for traffic, will be city responsibilities, since neither are located on routes which can qualify for federal urban aid funds.

If both of the projects do qualify for federal aid, the savings to the City of Cumberland would amount to up to $150,000, officials said.



JAMES A. HILAIRE

Local Youth Makes Record Score On Test

James Arthur Hilaire, 19-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul A. Hilaire, 110 LeFevre Road, scored the highest mark ever recorded in this area on the United States Navy applicant's qualification test.

Hilaire, who enlisted in the Navy Tuesday and was sent to Bainbridge Naval Training Station for recruit training, had a score of 78 on the test. Eighty is the highest possible mark that can be recorded on this examination.

Last month, John Henry Biggs, 419 North Centre Street, made the highest score ever recorded in this area up until that time. Biggs, who like Hilaire enlisted as a seaman recruit, attained a score of 77 on the examination.

Hilaire was graduated from Allegany High School in 1952 and attended Frostburg State Teachers College for two years, where he was a member of Alpha Tau Alpha fraternity and played on the fraternity basketball team.

His father is head of the mathematics department at Beall High School, Frostburg, and for several years directed the Kiwanis Club Sunshine Camp on McDonald Terrace.

Prior to his enlistment, young Hilaire was employed as a lifeguard at the Celanese swimming pool, which his father manages during the summer months.

Mahoney-Byrd Legal Scuffle Set To Resume

Hearing Scheduled For 10 A. M. Monday

CENTREVILLE, Md., Aug. 6 (AP)—Circuit Judge William R. Horney today set for Monday the resumption of the dragging legal battle for the Democratic nomination for governor of Maryland.

At 10 a.m. in Easton he will start hearing arguments on George P. Mahoney's plea that 245 challenged Talbot County ballots in the close June 28 primary be rejected.

If the plea fails, the nomination will finally go to Dr. H. C. Byrd, former president of the University of Maryland, who was the apparent winner in June with a 4,000 margin in the state-wide popular vote and an 80-72 edge in county unit nominating votes.

Needs Both

Should Mahoney upset the result in Talbot, he still will have a battle to fight in Queen Annes County, where a similar plea is pending. He must win both counties in order to turn the unit vote in his favor.

Procedures for settling the court tests in both Talbot and Queen Annes were agreed upon here today in an open conference Judge Horney held with attorneys for both sides.

He was puzzled as to how to go ahead, he said, and asked the lawyers for their suggestions.

On Wednesday the Court of Appeals in Annapolis overruled his previous decision that he had no authority to hear arguments and decide whether the challenged ballots should be counted.

Hyman A. Pressman, Baltimore attorney for Mahoney, insisted that an immediate start should be made on a complete recheck of the 4,000 ballots cast in Queen Annes.

Accepts 550

The county's board of election supervisors found acceptable about 550 ballots which the Mahoney forces challenged during an earlier recount as improperly marked or illegally defaced.

The challenged ballots were strung back together with all the other ballots. The only way to get the questioned ballots before Judge Horney for a ruling on them is to go through all 4,000 again, Pressman insisted.

William C. Walsh of Cumberland, former attorney general and now chief counsel for Byrd, had a different idea.

He suggested the action move to Talbot County, where 245 challenged but accepted ballots were kept separate after the recount.

If Judge Horney ultimately decides they were properly counted, Walsh pointed out, there will be no necessity for further proceedings in Queen Annes, since Mahoney cannot win unless he takes both counties.

If the 245 ballots are finally rejected, Walsh warned, then the Byrd forces may want to challenge still other ballots in Talbot.

Judge Horney accepted the suggestion for the move to Talbot.

Attorneys Wrangle

The opposing attorneys then went into a wrangle on what the procedure should be in Queen Annes.

They finally agreed on this formula:

1. As soon as the Talbot County trial is completed, the Queen Annes County election supervisors shall open each ballot box, examine all the ballots, set aside any challenged by either side, and string them together separately.

2. Each side shall be permitted two challengers and a tally clerk to count the ballots in each box.

3. Each side will post a $500 bond to defray expenses as they later are determined by the court.

4. The process shall be stopped at once "if the result of the proceedings in Talbot county, including appeals, does not change the result of the primary in that county."

Judge Horney called the whole situation "completely unprecedented."

He had insisted on the provision about posting bond to pay the costs.

May Appeal Again

The language of the stipulations indicated the Mahoney forces plan to go to the Court of Appeals again should Judge Horney decide against them in Talbot. It is likely the Byrd forces would, too.

The more than five weeks of battling over the outcome of the primary already has seen four recounts, demanded by Mahoney in three counties and one Baltimore City legislative district, and three petitions to the Court of Appeals.

He has suffered setbacks at every turn, except for Wednesday's Court of Appeals decision remanding the Talbot and Queen Annes cases to Judge Horney for further consideration.

29th Infantry Is Lauded For Maneuver Action

Troops Inspected By Gov. McKeldin

INDIANTOWN GAP, Pa., Aug. 6 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Henry C. Evans, commanding general of the 29th Infantry Division, voiced deep satisfaction with his troops today as the division ended two weeks of summer maneuvers.

"I am very much pleased with the way the men trained," Gen. Evans said. "I think they got a lot out of their two weeks of training and they are in better shape today than they ever have been in peacetime."

Assumes Command

Gen. Evans assumed command on June 1 of the division, which is composed of national guard units from Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia.

The last official ceremony of the division's encampment was a review of Maryland troops by Gov. Theodore Roosevelt McKeldin, of Maryland.

"The troops look wonderful and well fed," the governor said after the inspection. "We are in better shape today than we ever have been."

Even as the review was held, many of the 6,500 troops from Virginia and West Virginia were homeward bound from the 17,000-acre Army base located at the foothills of Blue Mountain, near Harrisburg. The remainder of the division will pull out tomorrow for their home stations.

The Maryland governor told Col. Randolph Millholland, commanding officer of the 115th Infantry Regiment, that his unit will receive a citation from him for the rescue work one of its elements accomplished in the recent Chestertown, Md., explosion of a fireworks factory.

Gov. Satisfied

Gov. McKeldin also expressed satisfaction at the high rating the 175th Infantry Regiment received for its encampment this year.

Gov. McKeldin took his first helicopter ride during his inspection of the Maryland troops. As he viewed a demonstration of helicopters evacuating simulated battle casualties, Maj. W. H. Graul, air officer of the division, asked the governor if he would like to take a ride.

"I thoroughly enjoyed my first helicopter ride," Gov. McKeldin said after the aircraft circled the military reservation. "I think it is a tremendous improvement over other methods of air travel."

Burke States Kelly-Springfield Company Position On Crosstown Expressway Plan

Edmund S. Burke, president of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, in a letter to the Mayor and Council takes a stand against the crosstown expressway.

In his letter Burke cites seven specific reasons for his opposition. The letter follows:

"As one of the largest industries and the largest taxpayer within the corporate limits of the city, our assessed values amounting to 10.5% of total property valuation, we feel an obligation to record our views with respect to the proposed contract submitted by the State Roads Commission with reference to a crosstown viaduct or highway.

Realize Problems

"First, may we say in all frankness that we have tried to be good neighbors, working energetically for those projects we believe to be constructive and in the interest of future growth of the city. We realize the problems facing the city of attracting new industry, creating additional employment opportunities, and know that there is no magic formula by which they can be quickly or readily solved. Certainly, anyone who will take a few minutes to gather a few statistics together will quickly discover that employment in the State since 1939 has increased approximately 65 per cent. In the neighboring city of Hagerstown, by some 270 per cent; while in this same period in our own community, job opportunities have been reduced by approximately 5,000. Thus, it would seem as though the first objective of any project in which the city would bear a substantial cost should be one that would be of unquestionable long-range benefit and in the direction of attracting new industry to our area.

"Already, we are faced with the highest tax rate in the State when the city and county rates are added together. In Baltimore and other areas in the State, industry is exempt from taxation on personal property such as machinery and inventories of both raw and finished product. Here in Cumberland, new industry is exempt from taxation for a period of ten years only.

Definitely Opposed

"We cite these facts to point up the problems in connection with attracting new industry to our area. In view of the foregoing and after

Two Killed In Hampshire Co. Accidents

Paw Paw Boy, Woman From Ohio Die In Two Crashes

Two separate fatal highway accidents occurred in Hampshire (W. Va.) County yesterday within about eight hours.

A 10-year-old Paw Paw boy was killed when struck along the highway by a motorist and an Ohio woman was killed in a headon collision near Romney.

Killed Instantly

Dennis Layne Brelsford, son of John E. and Edith (Ginevan) Brelsford, was reported killed instantly on Pinoak Mountain on Route 29 about eight miles south of Paw Paw.

Full details of the accident which occurred about 5:30 p. m., were not learned late last night. State Police at Romney said that the boy reportedly attended a birthday party and apparently was returning to his home.

Trooper C. D. Austin, is investigating for the State Police. The boy, police said, apparently darted into the path of the passing car, whose driver stopped to give assistance.

The boy was born March 9, 1944. The body is at the Park Funeral Home, Berkeley Springs, W. Va.

Mrs. Mattie Lou Bussard, 65, of Van Wert, Ohio, was fatally injured and three persons seriously hurt yesterday morning in a headon collision near Romney, W. Va.

The injured persons, who were rushed to Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, are the dead woman's husband, Rev. Bert Bussard, 65, pastor of Wesley Methodist Church, Van Wert, and Mr. and Mrs. LaFollette Otis Heltzel, of Monongah, W. Va.

Pastor Driving

State Police at Romney said the car being driven by Rev. Bussard, which was traveling west on Route 50 just west of Romney, attempted to pass several other westbound cars and crashed headon into the east-bound Heltzel machine.

The accident occurred on a downhill grade near the State Road Commission garage, at approximately 10:10 a. m.

Both cars were practically demolished and damage was estimated at approximately $4,000.

Rev. Bussard suffered a fractured left leg and lacerations of the head, hands and legs. Mrs. Heltzel, who was reported in critical condition, has a fractured pelvis and a fracture of her right leg. Her husband sustained facial lacerations and cuts about the hand, and a chest injury.

The body of Mrs. Bussard was taken to the Combs Funeral Home in Romney and relatives were notified.

Sgt. R. E. Schnell and Trooper C. D. Austin of the Romney barracks, West Virginia State Police, investigated the accident. No charges have been filed pending a complete investigation.

Carefree Boys Headed For Camp

In the good ol' summer time, just about the best way to enjoy a vacation is to pack up and head for a good camping area. That is just what this carefree group of Police Boys Club members has in mind and as the above picture was taken they were looking forward to a week of fun at Camp Royal, Belle Grove, along Sideling Hill Creek. At the extreme right is Officer Harry A. Iser, who will be in charge of the 25 boys who left yesterday morning from Constitution Park. And the campers will not be without music since one of the members already aboard the truck brought along his horn to provide entertainment.

City To Seek Federal Aid For Two Projects

$150,000 Savings Possible Under Plan

Mayor Roy W. Eves announced yesterday that the city is exploring the possibilities of securing federal aid in building the approach to the new Potomac River bridge at Riverside Park and for the new Baltimore Street Bridge which must be built in connection with the Cumberland - Ridgeley flood protection project.

The Cumberland approach to the new bridge at Riverside Park is to be built this fall at an estimated cost of about $63,000.

Current flood control schedules call for the Baltimore Street Bridge to be rebuilt about 1957. Final plans for the span have not been completed, but preliminary estimates indicate the cost will be about $230,000.

Ask Federal Aid

Both projects are being built in connection with the $17,000,000 flood control project and were to be financed from local funds supplied by the City of Cumberland and Allegany County.

The city has formally requested that the bridge approach be built as a Federal Aid Urban project, which would mean that up to half of the cost could be paid from federal funds.

Tentative plans are being made to request similar federal funds when the Baltimore Street Bridge has to be replaced in connection with the swift - channel program planned for Wills Creek.

Do Not Qualify

Officials said federal participation might depend upon the availability of federal matching funds.

The Frederick Street improvement program has been certified as a federal urban aid project, with half the costs provided by the government.

Two other bridges to be replaced during the flood work, the Valley Street Bridge, which is now being built, and the Market Street Bridge, slated for construction when the Valley Street span is opened for traffic, will be city responsibilities, since neither are located on routes which can qualify for federal urban aid funds.

If both of the projects do qualify for federal aid, the savings to the City of Cumberland would amount to up to $150,000, officials said.

Mahoney-Byrd Legal Scuffle Set To Resume

Hearing Scheduled For 10 A. M. Monday

CENTREVILLE, Md., Aug. 6 (AP)—Circuit Judge William R. Horney today set for Monday the resumption of the dragging legal battle for the Democratic nomination for governor of Maryland.

At 10 a.m. in Easton he will start hearing arguments on George P. Mahoney's plea that 245 challenged Talbot County ballots in the close June 28 primary be rejected.

If the plea fails, the nomination will finally go to Dr. H. C. Byrd, former president of the University of Maryland, who was the apparent winner in June with a 4,000 margin in the state-wide popular vote and an 80-72 edge in county unit nominating votes.

Needs Both

Should Mahoney upset the result in Talbot, he still will have a battle to fight in Queen Annes County, where a similar plea is pending. He must win both counties in order to turn the unit vote in his favor.

Procedures for settling the court tests in both Talbot and Queen Annes were agreed upon here today in an open conference Judge Horney held with attorneys for both sides.

He was puzzled as to how to go ahead, he said, and asked the lawyers for their suggestions.

On Wednesday the Court of Appeals in Annapolis overruled his previous decision that he had no authority to hear arguments and decide whether the challenged ballots should be counted.

Hyman A. Pressman, Baltimore attorney for Mahoney, insisted that an immediate start should be made on a complete recheck of the 4,000 ballots cast in Queen Annes.

Accepts 550

The county's board of election supervisors found acceptable about 550 ballots which the Mahoney forces challenged during an earlier recount as improperly marked or illegally defaced.

The challenged ballots were strung back together with all the other ballots. The only way to get the questioned ballots before Judge Horney for a ruling on them is to go through all 4,000 again, Pressman insisted.

William C. Walsh of Cumberland, former attorney general and now chief counsel for Byrd, had a different idea.

He suggested the action move to Talbot County, where 245 challenged but accepted ballots were kept separate after the recount.

If Judge Horney ultimately decides they were properly counted, Walsh pointed out, there will be no necessity for further proceedings in Queen Annes, since Mahoney cannot win unless he takes both counties.

If the 245 ballots are finally rejected, Walsh warned, then the Byrd forces may want to challenge still other ballots in Talbot.

Judge Horney accepted the suggestion for the move to Talbot.

Attorneys Wrangle

The opposing attorneys then went into a wrangle on what the procedure should be in Queen Annes.

They finally agreed on this formula:

1. As soon as the Talbot County trial is completed, the Queen Annes County election supervisors shall open each ballot box, examine all the ballots, set aside any challenged by either side, and string them together separately.

2. Each side shall be permitted two challengers and a tally clerk to count the ballots in each box.

3. Each side will post a $500 bond to defray expenses as they later are determined by the court.

4. The process shall be stopped at once "if the result of the proceedings in Talbot county, including appeals, does not change the result of the primary in that county."

Judge Horney called the whole situation "completely unprecedented."

He had insisted on the provision about posting bond to pay the costs.

May Appeal Again

The language of the stipulations indicated the Mahoney forces plan to go to the Court of Appeals again should Judge Horney decide against them in Talbot. It is likely the Byrd forces would, too.

The more than five weeks of battling over the outcome of the primary already has seen four recounts, demanded by Mahoney in three counties and one Baltimore City legislative district, and three petitions to the Court of Appeals.

He has suffered setbacks at every turn, except for Wednesday's Court of Appeals decision remanding the Talbot and Queen Annes cases to Judge Horney for further consideration.

29th Infantry Is Lauded For Maneuver Action

Troops Inspected By Gov. McKeldin

INDIANTOWN GAP, Pa., Aug. 6 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Henry C. Evans, commanding general of the 29th Infantry Division, voiced deep satisfaction with his troops today as the division ended two weeks of summer maneuvers.

"I am very much pleased with the way the men trained," Gen. Evans said. "I think they got a lot out of their two weeks of training and they are in better shape today than they ever have been in peacetime."

Assumes Command

Gen. Evans assumed command on June 1 of the division, which is composed of national guard units from Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia.

The last official ceremony of the division's encampment was a review of Maryland troops by Gov. Theodore Roosevelt McKeldin, of Maryland.

"The troops look wonderful and well fed," the governor said after the inspection. "We are in better shape today than we ever have been."

Even as the review was held, many of the 6,500 troops from Virginia and West Virginia were homeward bound from the 17,000-acre Army base located at the foothills of Blue Mountain, near Harrisburg. The remainder of the division will pull out tomorrow for their home stations.

The Maryland governor told Col. Randolph Millholland, commanding officer of the 115th Infantry Regiment, that his unit will receive a citation from him for the rescue work one of its elements accomplished in the recent Chestertown, Md., explosion of a fireworks factory.

Gov. Satisfied

Gov. McKeldin also expressed satisfaction at the high rating the 175th Infantry Regiment received for its encampment this year.

Gov. McKeldin took his first helicopter ride during his inspection of the Maryland troops. As he viewed a demonstration of helicopters evacuating simulated battle casualties, Maj. W. H. Graul, air officer of the division, asked the governor if he would like to take a ride.

"I thoroughly enjoyed my first helicopter ride," Gov. McKeldin said after the aircraft circled the military reservation. "I think it is a tremendous improvement over other methods of air travel."

Burke States Kelly-Springfield Company Position On Crosstown Expressway Plan

Edmund S. Burke, president of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, in a letter to the Mayor and Council takes a stand against the crosstown expressway.

In his letter Burke cites seven specific reasons for his opposition. The letter follows:

"As one of the largest industries and the largest taxpayer within the corporate limits of the city, our assessed values amounting to 10.5% of total property valuation, we feel an obligation to record our views with respect to the proposed contract submitted by the State Roads Commission with reference to a crosstown viaduct or highway.

Realize Problems

"First, may we say in all frankness that we have tried to be good neighbors, working energetically for those projects we believe to be constructive and in the interest of future growth of the city. We realize the problems facing the city of attracting new industry, creating additional employment opportunities, and know that there is no magic formula by which they can be quickly or readily solved. Certainly, anyone who will take a few minutes to gather a few statistics together will quickly discover that employment in the State since 1939 has increased approximately 65 per cent. In the neighboring city of Hagerstown, by some 270 per cent; while in this same period in our own community, job opportunities have been reduced by approximately 5,000. Thus, it would seem as though the first objective of any project in which the city would bear a substantial cost should be one that would be of unquestionable long-range benefit and in the direction of attracting new industry to our area.

"Already, we are faced with the highest tax rate in the State when the city and county rates are added together. In Baltimore and other areas in the State, industry is exempt from taxation on personal property such as machinery and inventories of both raw and finished product. Here in Cumberland, new industry is exempt from taxation for a period of ten years only.

Definitely Opposed

"We cite these facts to point up the problems in connection with attracting new industry to our area. In view of the foregoing and after
